Boat Swamps Near
Templeton Bayou;
Woman Is Rescued

FREMONT — A 50-year-old Chicago man became Waupaca County's first 1965 water victim Sunday when he drowned in the Wolf River near Templeton Bayou.

The body of Vesper Young was recovered from the Wolf River about 4 p.m. Sunday by Gordon Pulf and Jerry Looker, two of about 20 volunteers organized into a dragging crew by Fremont Fire Chief Gordon Toepke. The body was taken by Bauer Ambulance to Weyauwega.

Young and the 44-year-old woman who identified herself as his wife, had been fishing near Fremont and were returning to Gills Landing, where they had left their car, when their 12-foot aluminum boat was swamped by a wave. According to the Waupaca County Sheriff's department, Young drowned about 1:30 p.m.

The woman, who was wearing a life jacket, was rescued by Alred Luebben, Hillsdale, Ill., and Mike Lizalek, Cicero, Ill., who heard her screams for help. The two Illinois men said they had seen the couple a short time before the incident. When they spotted her, Young, who was not wearing a life jacket, was still on the surface of the water but he went under before they could reach him. He could not swim.

Turn in Alarm

They alerted another passing fisherman who turned in the alarm to Theodore Lantvit at the Pine Grove resort. Lantvit called the volunteer fire department and sent his brother, John, North Riverside, Ill., to the drowning scene. John took the woman from Big Bend, which is six to eight miles

Gunfire Reported In Strike-Tense Tennessee Town

LAWRENCEBURG, Tenn. (AP) — Snipers, armed with shotguns and rifles, fired overnight on two cars and a house owned by nonstriking employees of the Murray Ohio Manufacturing Co. police reported today.

Sheriff Harold Brown reported the incidents, in which no one was injured, as about 1,000 non-strikers drove to work without incident past four Teamsters Union pickets.

It was the first time the plant had been opened since an agreement was reached for the withdrawal of state troopers, who had policed picketing activities around the plant all last week.

Two pickets on each gate walked back and forth across the two access roads to the sprawling facility. But they made no effort to stop cars, and did not cross the roads when cars were entering the plant.

Oppenheimer Plans to Resign

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, who directed the nation's atomic bomb project during the last two years of World War II, plans to resign as director of the Institute for Advanced Study.

Oppenheimer, 61, said Saturday he will resign in June 1966 but would continue at the institute as senior professor of theoretical physics.

Broadcast Conference Slated by Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson will hold a news conference Tuesday in the White House, and live radio and television broadcast will be permitted. No time has been set.

Johnson said more than a month ago he would have about one news conference a month with advance notice. This is the first such conference since then.

Boy Sniper Sprays Road With Bullets

Score Is 2 Dead, 11 Injured;
Youth Turns Rifle on Self
After Battling With Officers

SANTA MARIA, Calif. (AP) — A 16-year-old boy, hidden by waving grass on a windy hillside, fired down with a high-powered rifle on passing cars on busy U. S. 101 Sunday. Michael Andrew Clark killed two persons and injured 11, engaged officers in a gunfight for 1½ hours and then took his own life by shooting himself between the eyes. Authorities said the sniper's parents, Forrest and Joyce Clark of Long Beach, 200 miles south of the battle scene, reported the boy had run away from home Saturday night in the family car. Sunday afternoon the couple identified their son's clothes, broken eyeglasses, a cigarette lighter emblazoned with a Playboy bunny emblem — and his body.

Officers quoted Mrs. Clark as saying "I just can't understand it. I'd like to talk to those poor people who were shot at. But what can I say?"

2 Killed

Killed by bullets from the youth's 30-06 Swedish Mauser deer rifle, equipped with a telescopic sight, were Charles Christopher Hogan, 21, of San Luis Obispo, and Joel W. Kocub, 28, of Los Angeles.

Of the wounded, two were critically hurt — Bill Reida, 42, of Norwalk, shot in the neck and shoulder, and his son, Kevin Dean, 5, shot in the head. The child was in critical condition after brain surgery at Santa Barbara's Cottage Hospital, 160 miles south. Another son, Kim Pakistani forces were attacking along India's western border. Chavan told Parliament a brigade — about 5,000 men — of Pakistani infantry supported by tanks was attacking Biharbet, about six miles inside territory claimed by India in the disputed Rann of Kutch area.

He said Pakistan's forces attacked Sunday.

Space Communications Record

Mariner to Face Many Hurdles on Mars Trip

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The U.S. Mariner 4 spacecraft seems likely to set a new space communications record Thursday although it still will have to hop a heap of hurdles before it succeeds in photographing Mars July 14.

It already has run into the worst space dust storm yet recorded. If it survives this, Mariner 4 faces a deadlier potential danger: a Martian radiation belt like that surrounding earth.

Soviet Limit

Now more than 63 million miles from earth after traveling 229 million miles along its curved flight path, Mariner 4 is scheduled to pass the 66-million-mile mark about 1 a.m. (PDT) Thursday.

That's the point at which the record-holding Soviet Mars 1 spacecraft stopped sending back signals March 21, 1963.

7 East Germans Flee Into West

BRUNSWICK, Germany (AP) — Seven persons, including two East German border guards, fled to West Germany over the weekend, border police reported today.

They said the two guards made their escape while on a patrol of the border area. The other five came across the border south of here, near Goettingen, and included three laborers and a married couple. All made it through the guarded Iron Curtain without incident, police added.

Aggression by Reds 'Is Less Constrained'

Rebels Strated By Dominican Airforce Planes

opposed to the return to power of ex-President Juan D. Bosch. Rebel army forces passed out rifles and machine guns to about 3,000 civilians. Another 10,000 to 15,000 civilians were reported to be in possession of bottled gasoline bombs for use against any tank attack. Gasoline stations passed out gasoline free.

Two air force planes strafed a rebel army barracks behind the presidential palace, where ousted civilian junta leader Donald Reid Cabral is being held for his own safety. There was no report on damage.

5 Passes

Two other planes made five strafing passes at Duarte Bridge, where rebel tanks and artillery guarded the only route into the capital for the tanks stationed at San Isidro air base.

At the base, Brig. Gen. Elias Wessin, held command of about 1,500 troops and about 30 tanks. Although he appears to have accepted the forced resignation Sunday of Reid's junta, he is opposed to the return of Bosch, a liberal living in exile in Puerto Rico.

Officials said eight persons

N. Viet Nam Combat Unit's Infiltration South Is Cited

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said today Communist North Vietnamese aggression against South Viet Nam "has grown progressively more flagrant and unconstrained."

He said the latest step in what he called the intensification "is the covert infiltration of a regular combat unit of the North Vietnamese army into South Viet Nam."

McNamara made his statement at a nationally televised news conference in which he reviewed nearly three months of U.S. bombing attacks against roads, bridges, railroads and other military installations in north Viet Nam AA all designed to cut down the infiltration of men and supplies into the South.

Air Strikes

"The carefully controlled air strikes will continue as necessary to impede the infiltration and persuade the North Vietnamese leadership that their aggression against the South must stop," McNamara said in a statement.

Until now, U.S. officials have stopped short of saying that any formal units of North Viet Nam's army have entered the war South of the 17th Parallel.

McNamara's confirmation today followed an earlier announcement from Saigon that at least one battalion of the North Vietnamese army has infiltrated into South Viet Nam and is fighting there as a unit.

McNamara identified the North Vietnamese unit as the 2nd Battalion of the 101st Regiment, 325th Division.

Presence Confirmed

He said evidence accumulating in the last month has now confirmed the presence of that battalion in northwest Kontum Province in the South Vietnamese highlands.

Recent captures, he said, indicate that approximately 75 percent of those who have infiltrated in the last year were born in North Viet Nam.

Many of the recent captives, McNamara said, "are young draftees called into infiltration units that marched south through Laos in units 500 to 600 strong."

"It is clear that the Communists are determined to keep up the pressure," he said.

General Reports

U.S. Missiles Aimed At Red Chinese Targets

BY HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top Air Force missile general says the United States has targets picked out in Red China and could destroy key government, command and industrial centers in the event of a general war.

The officer, Maj. Gen. John P. Lavelle, indicated Peking's new nuclear facility was one of those targets.

Lavelle, a deputy chief of staff and director of aerospace programs, testified Feb. 23 on the Air Force budget at a closed hearing of a House Appropriations subcommittee. His censored testimony was made public today.

Lavelle said in reply to questions that the United States, if attacked, would have the capability of simultaneously hitting targets in Red China, the Soviet Union and "a satellite area."

He said the missiles would inflict what the Pentagon calls "unacceptably high levels of destruction."

Industry Spread

However, he noted Red China's industry "is spread out in small factories everywhere and we would not have the same capacity with the Chinese industry."

But, Lavelle added, "our theater forces should be able to inflict an unacceptable level of destruction" on Red China.

He did not elaborate on what he meant by theater forces. Presumably he was referring to Air Force and other units in the Pacific area rather than to strategic missiles and bombers.

Schumacher Wise to Quit, Knowles Says

Investigation of
Shawano Attorney
Had Been Asked

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — The withdrawal of Commissioner Jack Schumacher of Shawano from conservation commission affairs affecting the Menominee Indians was probably a wise decision for him, Gov. Warren Knowles said today.

The governor told a news conference he had been asked to investigate the "conflict of interests" possibility posed by Schumacher's promotion of the sale of Menominee forest lands to the state at a time that he is holding substantial amounts of Indian securities representing holdings in those lands as collateral for unpaid legal fees.

Potential Conflict

"It would appear that his continued participation in the promotion of the sale might involve a conflict of interests," the governor said when he was asked about Schumacher's recent announcement that he will no longer take part in state policy decisions affecting the Indian community.

In his semi-monthly meeting with capitol correspondents, the governor also announced that:

1. Arrangements have been made to assist elderly persons in filing forms for special property tax exemptions. Volunteers will be sent into the field by state agencies to make certain that the maximum number of eligible elderly persons take advantage of the tax relief law before the new deadline July 15.

2. The state department of taxation will rule that persons who have suffered uninsured flood and tornado losses will be able to take income tax deductions.

3. He is grateful for Democratic legislative cooperation in pushing for a highway safety

Anti-U. S. Riots In Cambodia

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — The U.S. flag was torn from its staff and trampled on the ground in a violent anti-American demonstration before the U.S. Embassy today.

Several thousand demonstrators chanted anti-American slogans and hurled tomatoes and rocks at the embassy. Windows in the front of the building were smashed.

One demonstrator managed to break into the embassy compound and climb to a second-story balcony, where the Stars and Stripes flew from its staff. To the cheers of his comrades, the demonstrator tore the flag from the staff and hurled it to the ground. The mob clutched the banner, then trampled it.

Students Protest In Tokyo Riot

Traffic on a broad avenue was blocked as about 600 students staged a sitdown in the middle of the street despite a drizzling rain.

The students defied repeated orders to get up, and the police finally moved in to evict them. First fights followed, and detectives hauled several students away.

East a ruff on the third round. East returned a trump to the ace, and South had to decide who had the queen of trumps.

Non-geniuses might toss a small trump, and South led a heart to the dummy and returned the jack of clubs. If East ruffed, South could over-ruff, and then only one trump would be left out. But East threw a diamond instead of ruffing.

When declarer next led a trump from dummy, East followed with a small trump, and South worked it all out. Surely if East had only one small trump he would ruff the jack of clubs since he could thus prevent a discard with a trump that meant nothing to anybody. East's refusal to ruff made it clear that he had the queen of trumps as well as the small trump. East couldn't afford to part with the small trump since then the queen would be unguarded.

Explains Finesse

After working it all out, South triumphantly put his hand face up on the table and explained why he was finessing with the jack of spades. It was such a clear explanation that West admiringly asked to hear it again before he played to the trick.

South obliged, and West heard him out to the very end before he showed the queen of spades and took the setting trick. The life of a genius is very hard. Incidentally, East didn't claim to be a genius. It was clear that South wanted him to ruff, and East reasoned that what was good for South could not be good for his opponents.

Your Problems

Woman Appreciates Spankings From Mate—to Friend's Horror

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm shocked I'm not sure I can express myself properly. A lovely woman I've known for years we are both in our middle 30's. I confided that her husband spanks her when she displeases him. She asked if my husband ever spanked me. When I told her I would never tolerate such an indignity she looked at me as if I was crazy.

Then she went on to defend her husband by saying he never spanked her unless she deserved it. "And," she added, "I usually feel a lot better after it is over."

I always thought only low class slum dwellers hit their

Dear Still: All kinds of men hit their wives and they live in mansions, on suburban estates—and in the low rent districts.

Landers

There is indeed something wrong with him, and with her, too.

A woman who tolerates a spanking is as sick as the man who gives her one. It's both strange and interesting how these physical kinks seem to find each other. My guess is that they rehearse a little before marriage.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I spent the weekend with a relative in Montana. Opal was always lackadaisical and not what you'd call the world's best housekeeper. I didn't go there to inspect her house, however, and this is not what I'm writing about.

One afternoon Opal prepared a meat loaf. She called the dog in from outside and let him lick the bowl clean. I almost got sick. When Opal put the bowl in the dishwasher with the family's dishes I felt this was too much. I told her I thought it was a very unhealthy thing to do because dogs that run loose get into garbage cans and heaven knows what all.

She said I was out of my head; that scalding water and soap will kill almost any germ. She seemed so positive that I'm eager to hear your answer—Sal.

Dear Sal: My answer wouldn't mean much, so I checked with an authority and got his answer. A Chicago doctor of veterinary medicine said your Montana relative is correct—that scalding water and soap will kill almost any germ. He said further that it's O.K. to let the dog lick the cooking bowl and then wash the bowl with the family dishes.

So, here's your answer Madame—right from the vet's mouth. I still wouldn't do it regardless of who said it was all right, simply because the whole idea is repulsive to me.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wedding is several months off but I am planning ahead so everything will be perfect. When she stands up for me. I asked my dearest friend to be my matron of honor six weeks when I asked her. Do you feel she accepted. It was fair of her to accept? My Sunday we were at the pool to-mother is mad as a wet hen—gather and she told me she did Undee-Syded not think she should dive off the high board because she is four months pregnant. This means your matron of honor because she will be in her eighth month she was your dearest friend.

Does being pregnant make her less dear?

Maternity clothes today do not look very different than some of the latest fashions. In fact it's hard to tell what's cooking under the shifts and the Empress line gowns. Help her select a dress that hangs

Three Spring Rites Keep Mother Busy

Spring, to most mothers and homemakers, means three inevitable jobs: house cleaning, gardening and supervising the children's outdoor play. Here are time-tested tips on all three.

House cleaning should be planned one room or one area of the home at a time. This confines the mess and confusion to one area and leaves the rest of the house in good order. Great for family morale! At the end of the day soothe tired arms and legs with a warm loose, and you hang loose, too. Doll.

To solve some of the frustrations, disappointments and disillusionments of married life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. (Copyright, 1965) bath followed by a light run-down with witch hazel.

Gardening, even if it involves no more than a window box or putting with the shrubbery, should be approached with one eye on the vanity mirror. Wear a hat or scarf to protect hair and complexion from too much sun. Wear gloves to protect the hands, especially when using such tools as pruning shears, spade and rake. Be sure to rub the hands well with lotion before and after outdoors work. An excellent lotion for this purpose is a mixture of three ounces of witch hazel, two ounces of glycerine and two ounces of rosewater.

Outdoor play gets children happily and healthily out of the house but it involves new responsibilities for mother. She has to be coach, umpire, keeper of the peace and trainer. When it's batter-up time in the backyard the smart mother will see that her children have the basic equipment they need, a clothing that is "in style" and still easy to wash and care for, and a well stocked medicine chest.

Games are bound to bring up bumps, bruises, scrapes and strains. Gauze and surgical tape and a disinfectant are musts for the home trainer.

Demonstrators Are Arrested

18 Right Pickets Jailed Early in Cleveland Protest

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Eighteen civil rights demonstrators were arrested today in the first hour of picketing at a new federal building construction site opposite City Hall.

Eight sat down in front of two trucks waiting to enter the site. Some were carried by policemen to patrol wagons. Others sat down in the street blocking traffic and some sat down on the sidewalk.

Among those arrested was the Rev. Donald G. Jacobs, president of the Cleveland chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. That group is sponsoring the demonstrations protesting alleged discrimination in unions working at the building site.

Guard Site

About 35 policemen — on foot and horseback — and eight U.S. marshals guarded the site when 25 placard-carrying demonstrators began marching.

The marchers — Negro and white — at first walked along the sidewalk across from the block-long excavation.

As their ranks swelled to 40, a few headed toward the construction site.

They carried signs reading "The NAACP says 13 out of 13,000 is discrimination." They contend nine unions with 13,000 members have only 13 Negroes.

Spokesmen for building trades unions have denied that there is any discrimination.

Latin Club at AHS to Hold Roman Dinner

The ancient civilization of Rome, complete with toga-clad patricians and slaves, will be recreated by the Appleton High School Latin Club at its Roman banquet at 5 p.m. Tuesday, in the school's small gym.

Paper Making Patents Given Firms in Area

Rights Assigned to Combined Locks, Wire Works Concern

Two patents in the paper making field have been assigned to area firms. A patent titled "Roller Apparatus for Coating Paper Web" by Gerald D. Muggleton of Appleton has been assigned to the Combined Locks and Wire Works.

The Vlossak-Golden invention is a papermaking wire which has a coating of chromium so applied that the surfaces of the wire subjected to wear have a .68 thicker and harder chromium coating than the remaining surfaces.

Uniform Quality

In the operation of the Fourdrinier papermaking machine, paper of good uniform quality can be produced efficiently only if the wire fabric is upon which the paper fibers are deposited is smooth and uniform. Sliding of the wire fabric over parts of the papermaking apparatus causes wear.

The inventors claim the chromium coated wire retains a smooth surface throughout its use and has high resistance to abrasion and corrosion. It is scheduled as soon as possible, claimed to have a useful life at least one and a half times that of conventional wire.

He said only two issues remain to be settled on the smoothing roll of relatively way since mid-December and wage package and on the small diameter used in coating the union has been working vacation relief plan. Issues on paper. It forces the high areas without a contract since Dec. reduction in work week, of the coating into the low areas changes in job classification and to produce a uniformly smooth surface have coated surface which is commercially acceptable.

Black Creek Lake Project

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1 development is so new that specific guide lines and stand- ards have not been determined. The board of health does, however, have broad authority to cover the matter. If the supply of water is adequate for maintaining the minimum re- quirements of water purity, and it appears to have been excel- lent at Black Creek, and other health, safety and sanitation requirements are met, I see no reason why such lakes cannot become an outlet for leisure time recreation. We will have to make periodic tests and with the cooperation and interest that is being shown, sound guidelines can be set up.

Action Scheduled Dr. Wirth stated the Board of Health would act within a week on Seymour's lake plan, prepar- ed by the Soil Conservation Service, and that files would be set up for the Outagamie Conservation Club and Village of Black Creek in order that the public might be assured of the State Board converseance with the matter. He suggested that bath houses also have the approval of the Industrial Com- mission.

Those on the field tour and at the conference in addition to Wirth and Bubolz, were Vern Geiger, soil conservation agent, Stand Perkins, Orville Jens, Norman Helms and Joe De Bruin, county soil and water district supervisors, Ben Tru- man, Mayor of Seymour, Earl Gosse, city Engineer, City of Seymour; Ed Shaw, Black Creek, Vernon Plamann and Clem McHugh, Outagamie Con- servation Club; Courtney Schwartz and Mrs. Nick Englar, Red Cross Water Safety Direc- tor, and Gene Garrow, chair- man of the Wolf River Basin Water Resources Committee.

5 Raids Strike At Targets in North Viet Nam

Roads, Waterways Major Objects of Latest Activity

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese planes struck at roads and waterways in North Viet Nam in five raids today.

All the planes reportedly returned safely despite heavy ground fire in some areas.

Air activity in South Viet Nam also was unusually heavy as U.S. Air Force jets flew 68 sorties, most of them in mountainous central Viet Nam.

Large concentrations of Viet Cong troops in several central Vietnamese provinces have prompted heavy raids in the recent past.

The one U.S. fatality of the day occurred when a U.S. light spotting plane collided with a Vietnamese air force plane. The American plane crashed into the trees and burst into flames, killing the pilot.

Provided Cover

Both planes had been providing cover for a jungle operation 20 miles northeast of Saigon.

The Vietnamese spotting plane returned to its base with one wheel gone and made a safe landing.

In the heaviest of the raids on North Viet Nam, 45 U.S. Air Force jets hit road traffic and bridges along Routes 7, 8 and 12.

The jets "severely damaged" the Bai Duc Thon highway bridge, 160 miles south of Hanoi on Route 12, a U.S. spokesman said.

The Air Force planes also hit two railroad boxcars and a truck depot and supply area.

In two Navy raids, six jets from the carrier Hancock attacked a camouflaged patrol boat about 60 feet long and reportedly sank it.

Navy Planes

Two propeller-driven Navy planes from the carrier Midway spotted a new highway bridge 100 miles south of Hanoi and made craters in the approach to the bridge. They did not damage the bridge itself.

In operations Sunday, two U.S. Marines were killed in a Viet Cong attack; four air attacks on North Viet Nam hit approaches to a bridge, a ferry station and road traffic; and U.S. Air Force and Marine Corps jets flew 44 missions against suspected Viet Cong positions in the south.

Possible Life Sentence Seen In Kidnaping

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—William G. Birnbaum, 25, a former resident of Stevens Point, Wis., faces a maximum sentence of life imprisonment for the kidnaping of a man whom he accused of "taking my girl."

Birnbaum was convicted last week by a federal court jury of kidnaping Paul Scott of La Crosse, Wis., in 1959. It was his second conviction on the same charge. Originally he was found guilty and sentenced to 25 years in prison, but in 1961 the U.S. Supreme Court reversed the conviction on a technicality.

While serving a term in Wisconsin State Prison for burglary, Birnbaum corresponded with Cecelia Weisheck, a former neighbor during his childhood in Missouri. Last February he was adjudged capable of standing discharged from prison in 1959.

Arraignment Set for 3 in Rights Killing

HAMNEVILLE, Ala. (AP) —

Three Birmingham area white men accompanied by an attorney for the United Ku Klux Klan of America, faced arraignment today on first-degree murder charges in the slaying of civil rights worker Viola Liuzzo.

Circuit Solicitor Arthur E. Gamble Jr., who assembled the state's evidence, will formally read the charges — issued in an indictment returned last Thursday by the Lowndes County grand jury.

The three men then will have an opportunity to enter their pleas before Circuit Court Judge T. Werth Thagard. They told newsmen last Friday they are innocent.

Thagard also must set a trial date, expected to be in early May.

Charged are Eugene Thomas, 42, a steel worker, and William Orville Eaton, 41, a disabled steel worker, both of Bessemer; and Collie Leroy Wilkins Jr., 21, a self-employed mechanic from Fairfield.

They are accused of shooting to death Mrs. Liuzzo as she drove along a lonely portion of U.S. 80 near Lowndesboro on the night of March 25.

Birnbaum discovered that Miss Weisheck had been married to Scott. The prosecution alleged that Birnbaum went to the couple's home, ordered Scott out at gunpoint, accused him of "taking my girl" and forced him to drive him to St. Paul. Scott escaped there and Birnbaum was in prison, but in 1961 the U.S. Supreme Court reversed the conviction on a technicality.

While serving a term in Wisconsin State Prison for burglary, Birnbaum corresponded with Cecelia Weisheck, a former neighbor during his childhood in Missouri. Last February he was adjudged capable of standing discharged from prison in 1959.

After the Supreme Court reversed the original conviction, Birnbaum was found incompetent to stand another trial and was sent to a federal hospital in Missouri. Last February he was adjudged capable of standing trial.

Senate Group Favors Lull in Aerial Attacks

BY JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dissenters were preparing today for another round of criticism in the Senate of President Johnson's course in intensifying air strikes against North Viet Nam.

After a statement by Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen that the United States should bomb Hanoi if necessary, Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said he and others who favor a lull in aerial attacks intend to air their view that no peace negotiations are likely while the raids continue.

"If we put ourselves in the position of the North Vietnamese, it is pretty hard to see the President sitting down at a conference table if the Vietnamese were bombing installations in this country," Church said in an interview.

Wouldn't Work Dirksen said on the Republican National Committee's recorded radio program that a temporary halt in bombings, as proposed by Chairman J. F. Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, would not bring the Communists to any conference table.

"Can that be interpreted any other way than a kind of temporary surrender?" Dirksen asked. "The advantage is on our side and if we are going to force the enemy to start overtures for peace, we can do so only by continuing the pressure that has been exercised up until now."

Division to Keep Famed Red Arrow

EAU CLAIRE (AP) — The famed Red Arrow shoulder patch will still be worn by members of the Wisconsin National Guard despite the changed status under the Army Reserve realignment plan, a top National Guard spokesman said Saturday.

May Gen. James P. Cantwell told the Wisconsin National Guard Association convention he had received assurances from the secretary of the Army.

Under the plan being submitted to Congress by the Defense Department, Wisconsin's famed 32nd Division would be reduced to a brigade attached to a Minnesota division.

Cantwell said he regarded the change in status for the Red Arrow Division "irony of the cruellest sort."

Rain Has Little Effect in Flood Areas of State

Communities Look Forward to Drop in River Levels

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wisconsin soaked up the first major rainfall of the spring Sunday, but residents of the flood-plagued communities along the Mississippi River still looked hopefully toward gradually declining water levels, if not to the massive cleanup job that will follow.

Weather Bureau officials indicated that the rainfall, measuring more than an inch in some areas, would have little effect on the record flood levels already attained in Prairie du Chien, La Crosse and other river communities.

The steady chill rain had one welcome effect. Authorities at Prairie du Chien, who had braced themselves for an influx of sightseers Sunday, said the rain kept visitors at a minimum. "We're still asking those with no business in Prairie du Chien to stay away," a police official said.

River Dropped

The Mississippi, which had crested in the historic city at 25.3 Saturday, dropped to 25.2 Sunday. Flood stage is 18 feet.

At Cassville, to the south of Prairie du Chien, the crest of 24.1 still held. Civil defense personnel patrolled dikes for leaks but Mayor Raymond Eckstein said the more than one inch of rain that fell during the weekend apparently caused no added trouble. The dikes had been thrown up to protect the sewage plant.

About 60 per cent of Cassville's 300 homes suffered some seepage damage, Eckstein said.

La Crosse, which recorded a crest of 17.7 feet last week, was down to 17 feet Sunday but the city could not expect to have the river back in its banks before next week.

Seepage Problem

Officials said Highway 53 would be reopened as soon as possible but plans for an immediate reopening were held in abeyance after it was noted that the rate of the flood's recession had slowed. Seepage continued to be the main problem and sand was being pushed to the side of the highway and used as fill.

Dikes on private property were to be left there to replace land swept away by water.

The National Guard was recalled to its duties at La Crosse Sunday night, with a civilian guard replacing it. The Northern States Power Co. announced that it would begin re-connecting electricity on Monday and natural gas on Wednesday as the water recedes.

Donald W. Schulz, 20, and Allen Durszynski, 18, both of Altoona in Eau Claire County, were killed Saturday when their car missed a curve and rammed into an embankment near Altoona.

John T. Johnson, 87, of Superior, died Sunday of injuries suffered Wednesday in a two-car collision on a Douglas County road.

Floods Pour Through Part of Rock Island

BY ART SRB Associated Press Writer

through an industrial area of Rock Island, Ill., today as volunteers labored to keep the swirling Mississippi River from rushing into a residential section.

City officials feared a three-mile earthen dike would burst, sending the water into a 300-home housing project of 1,200 residents.

The floodwaters, which have driven more than 60,000 persons from their homes in three states, were fed by heavy rains over the weekend.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said the worst is still to come.

The flood crest of the Mississippi moving downstream from Dubuque, Iowa, will combine with the flow from tributaries to produce more floods by next weekend, the Weather Bureau was evacuated.

The latest reading of the waters in Rock Island, a city of 51,000 in the northwestern corner of Illinois near the Iowa-Missouri border, was 21 feet. Flood stage will be a critical flood situation is 15 feet. A crest of 22½ feet is for the entire area and local expected Tuesday or Wednesday and the public should day.

Raise, Lower Desk Flag Made as Special Fun-Project

BY CAPPY DICK

A flag for your desk is today's fun-project for boys and girls. The special thing about this flag is that you can raise it on its flagpole each morning and lower it at sundown.

On heavy paper draw a flag in action—that is, a flag waving in a breeze. Color it on both sides. Cut it down. Leave an uncolored edge about three-sixteenths of an inch along one end as in Figure 1. This strip is the part that will be inserted into the flag pole.

The pole is made of a soda straw. Carefully cut a long, straight slit in it, extending to within a quarter inch of each end. As a base (Figure 2) use one end of an empty thread spool. If the straw fits too loosely in the hole of the spool, use modeling clay to hold it firmly.

Fit the uncolored edge of the flag into the slit in the straw. Carefully slide it up to the top of the pole and down to see how it works.

At sundown each day slide the flag down the pole, remove it and lay it aside in a safe place. Each morning, insert the edge into the pole and slide the flag to the top.

On any occasions where flags are ordered flown at half mast (Figure 3) you must first raise it all the way to the top of the pole, then lower it half way. (Copyright, 1965)

Chevalier Magic Still Waxing Strong at 77

As Old as Eiffel Tower, Charming Frenchman Embarks on One-Man Show

BY JORIE LUELOFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Two French institutions are the same age, and at times it seems a toss-up as to which will endure the longer — the Eiffel Tower or Maurice Chevalier.

The ageless Frenchman — actually he will be 77 on Sept. 12 — recently embarked on a project from which most entertainers would flinch — a one-man show consisting of only himself and piano accompaniment. Enthusiastic audiences are reaffirming the fact that the Chevalier magic is still going strong.

"I feel that I have never been in such wonderful contact with the people," he says in the vivid French lilt that has charmed generations of Americans. "It's wonderful to go across so many years and still go deeper in the affection of the people."

Health Important
His own happy analysis of the Chevalier phenomenon is sprinkled with words like luck, marvel, wonder and miracle.

"First," he says, "there's the luck of keeping enough health to do it. And secondly, it must be that I'm more a personality than an actor. I'm just natural. Maybe they feel a little bit of the warmth I've always had in my way of living. I go through new fashions, new generations — I think that's my luck."

"To be able to be what I am in a profession where things go roaring and roaring and roaring," he sums up with a lot of raspy French R's, "that's my little miracle!"

Going to Boston
When his four-week New York run ends in early May, Chevalier will take his show to Boston for a week before heading home to his country estate near Paris.

Carbon Monoxide Kills 4 Aboard Luxury Yacht

SARNIA, Ont. (AP) — The deaths of four persons aboard a luxury yacht Saturday were attributed today as due to carbon monoxide gas.

Autopsies showed the four had asphyxiated below deck, officials said.

Coroner W. D. Logie of this Canadian port city on the St. Clair River said a "very heavy concentration" of monoxide gas had caused death. A pet dachshund also died.

Found dead aboard the 50-foot cruiser Lady D when she docked here on an overnight trip from Detroit were the vessel's owners, John Dunn Jr., 40, Warren, Mich., and Cass Flowers, 47, Hamtramck, and Flowers' wife, Sophie, 44, and a guest, Joyce Brinkhoff, 23, Littleton, Colo.

Capt. Donald Winter, 35, East Detroit, skipper in charge of the Lady D's first trip of the new Great Lakes pleasure boat season, said he discovered the deaths after docking.

1945 Stars as TV Season of Reruns Starts

BY TV SCOUT

9-10 (Channel 2) — 1945, a CBS News Special, recalls one of the most joyful days in history: May 8, 1945, when again it was silent on the Western Front as World War II came to a close in Europe.

6:30-7:30 (Channel 11) — Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea again takes a rocky ride that any experienced salt would avoid as it begins its summer repeat series with "The Price of Doom." The Seaview faces a murky finale when the samples of marine life mysteriously expand. Repeat.

7-8 (Channel 4-5) — Another adventure series, The Man From U.N.C.L.E., also starts its summer schedule of reruns by returning its very first episode, "The Vulcan Affair." Here we first learn of the far-out powers of Napoleon Solo (Robert Vaughn) and the far-out menacing tricks of Thrush. Repeat.

7:30-8 (Channel 2) — "Opie and the Carnival" on The Andy Griffith Show gives youngster Ronny Howard one of his most appealing assignments yet. The tyke, a crack sharpshooter, is determined to win his dad (Andy) an electric razor at a shooting gallery. The operators (comment of the worse kind) want him to settle for sleazy elephants.

8-8:30 (Channel 2) — On The Lucy Show, Jack Benny pops up as an unlikely plumber to fix Lucy's pipes and immediately runs into stormy water with the comedienne, who isn't convinced that he isn't the "real Jack Benny." Repeat.

8-9 (Channel 4-5) — The Andy Williams Show has another noisy session, with the emphasis on broad humor and bombastic music. Comedienne Phyllis Diller pops up to show Andy and trumpeter Al Hirt how to toss a wild salad. (COLOR)

8:30-9 (Channel 11) — The Bing Crosby Show brings back "Exactly Like Who?," which may prove that two Crosbys are better than one. The eldest of Bing's clan, Gary, shows up as a glib song promoter eager to teach the young females all the modern, tuneless "yeahs-yeahs." Repeat.

9-10 (Channel 4-5) — "The Second Wife" on The Alfred Hitchcock Hour tells the old tale of a mail order bride who fears her groom would rather play how-to-murder-your-wife than post office.

9-10 (Channel 11) — Ben Casey has a fairly reasonable and engrossing episode with "The Day They Stole County General." Howard DaSilva gives a bravo performance as a wily Greek, who wishes he had as much money as Onassis.

Maurice Chevalier

er will take his show to Boston for a week before heading home to his country estate near Paris. "I don't work all year long — boom, boom, boom all the time," he says, slamming fist into hand to punctuate the booms. "I go around the world half the year, and the other half I have a beautiful holiday at home."

That does not mean semi-retirement. The French star is always eager to embark on a new project. After a 65-year career in records, films and on stage, a fresh idea has captured his interest.

Old Man Role
"I'd like to have a real great part as an old man in a picture in which the story would go around an old man. I'm not what you call an actor, so it's got to be playing a man of my age that I understand — a man that has a little bit of n.y. ways."

"It will come," he says, "it will come one day. "When I retire it will be because my health would force me to retire. My work is the great happiness I have in my life, now — all the rest — I've had it wonderfully. As long as I can do it, I will go on doing it, because that's my greatest kick in life — my greatest pride."

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

ARE TODAY'S TEENS
SAVING MONEY?
YES ☐ NO ☐

Yes. A recent nationwide survey found nine out of 10 high school students saving something. Forty per cent say they save whatever is left after they have bought what they need. Another 30 per cent save a definite amount every week, and about 12 per cent are really determined to put money aside. They say they "save all they can even if it means having to do without things they need." They know what they want and they are willing to save for it.

Who have the most mental illness?

The poor — The wealthy —
The poor, and by a considerable difference. One study by Hillingshead and Redlich found that the very poor have about three times as much mental illness per capita as do the wealthy. There are several reasons for this difference. Since the mentally ill often cannot hold down a job, mental illness becomes a major cause for poverty. On the other hand, the poor are beset with many problems unknown to the rich and have fewer resources with which to handle them.

If you are seeking help along these lines, send for the booklet, "When Mental Illness Strikes Your Family." It's yours for 25c and your name and address sent to this column, care of the Post-Crescent.

Braves to Open 3-Game Series With St. Louis

Lemaster Hurls Opener Tuesday at County Stadium

MILWAUKEE (AP)—With only two days of action on the playing field in six days, the Milwaukee Braves may be anxious to get going.

But the Braves, preparing to meet the world champion St. Louis Cardinals in a three-game series starting at County Stadium Tuesday night, could find their idleness a blessing. A pair of sluggers who've been sidelined with medical problems will be back with the team when action resumes. Henry Aaron, described as fully recovered from ankle surgery, is ready to go, weather permitting, and Rico Carty is expected to be released from Milwaukee Hospital after treatment for a sprained back and will rejoin the team for workouts Tuesday. And Joe Torre's bruised thumb is good enough so he can catch again.

The Braves and their weekend series with the Cubs at Chicago came a cropper, and that old villain, spring weather, could take a good portion of the blame.

Steady Rain
The Friday opener at Wrigley Field was postponed because of rain and wet grounds and was rescheduled as part of a double-header Sunday. A steady rain dispensed with the twin bill, but the two teams managed to get in their Saturday game, which ended with Milwaukee on the short end of a 3-1 score.

Originally, the Cubs had decided to have their prerogative to have the Braves stay over Sunday night and play today, an open date. But officials of both clubs reasoned that a good time to play the doubleheader would be July 14, a day after the annual All-Star game scheduled at Minnesota. The National League will have to approve the date.

The Braves, whose low batting average of .211 obviously needs the adrenalin that Aaron and Carty might pump into it, are in ninth place with a 3-5 record. The champs from St. Louis aren't doing so well either. They're 10th with 3-6.

Cards Arrive
Manager Red Schoendienst planned to have his players at County Stadium today for a footout if the weather will let him.

Milwaukee's expected starter Tuesday night will be Denny Lemaster who was due to go against the Cubs in the first game Sunday.

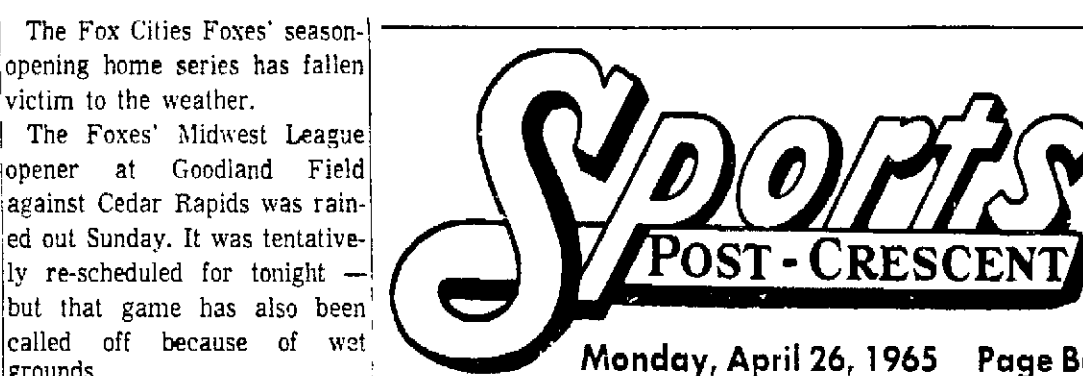

Aaron wasn't able to start against the Cubs Saturday because of the slippery field but entered the game in the seventh as a pinch hitter. He singled and then retired for a pinch runner.

Legion League's 'Northern' Teams Start Play June 13

The Northern Division of the Fox Valley Legion Baseball League opens competition June 13 and will conclude after 12 games per team—July 24.

League officials drew up and approved the schedule at a meeting in Green Bay Saturday. The 7-team circuit includes teams from Kaukauna, Seymour, Oconto, Marinette, Green Bay East, Green Bay West and Wrightstown.

Officials voted to try Sunday games for the first time in a number of years. Most of the games will be played Sunday afternoons.

Boston '5' Rolls to NBA Crown With 129-96 Win Over Los Angeles

Celtics Score 20 Straight Points to Win Playoff Handily

BY BOB HOOBING
BOSTON (AP)—Bill Russell, giant rallying figure of the Celtics, called "it the most satisfying year of all."

A few hours later he was confined to bed, suffering from undetermined injuries to his right eye.

Russell, who led Boston to an overpowering 129-96 triumph over Los Angeles Sunday for the Celtics' seventh straight National Basketball Association title, was ordered to bed Sunday night for treatment of injuries received when the Lakers' Jerry West accidentally poked him in the eye.

Jub'ant Dressing Room
Dr. Baruch Sachs, an eye specialist, said the big center's condition was "a lot more serious than first thought" and "has got to be treated very carefully."

Neither Dr. Sachs nor the Celtics would say if there was danger of Russell's eyesight being impaired.

In the jubilant Celtics' dressing room after the game, Russell said the team had dedicated the season to Walter Brown, late club owner and founder.

"The season was something special because we broke the record with 62 victories. Then we proved we were worthy of it in the playoffs," Russell said.

"Naturally the first championship is still the biggest one for me," Coach Red Auerbach said.

"But when we broke the record for victories this year I really wanted to win to prove we were the greatest team."

"Everyone on this team digs Turn to Page 8, Col. 5

Burton, a veteran of better than 30 years of bowling, lost on a chance to take the Class A lead when he blew in the mid-point of his fourth game. His 905 total was just 10 for victories this year I really wanted to win to prove we were the greatest team."

Burton needed an even 200 game to tie Schmeidel or a 201 to take the lead. In the fifth frame of the last game he missed the head pin and left the 1, 3 and 6 pins. On his second effort he missed the whole group for what proved to be deciding.

The surprising fact about Burton's success is that he is not a regular in any league. He has substituted in several circuits during the past season and his highest number of games in any one circuit was about 40 in the scratch league at Kimberly.

Bulging Handicap
Schneider rolled 651 for the four games and carried a bulging handicap total of 236 for his 887 in Class B. His top game was a 190 in the third line.

Two past Bowl-O-Rama champions participated in the tournament over the weekend. Al Erdman, Neenah, last year's Class A men's champion, had a little difficulty finding the strike pocket and finished with a 689 Sunday. Last year he won with $485.

Dr. Baruch Sachs, an eye specialist, said the big center's condition was "a lot more serious than first thought" and "has got to be treated very carefully."

Neither Dr. Sachs nor the Celtics would say if there was danger of Russell's eyesight being impaired.

In the jubilant Celtics' dressing room after the game, Russell said the team had dedicated the season to Walter Brown, late club owner and founder.

"The season was something special because we broke the record with 62 victories. Then we proved we were worthy of it in the playoffs," Russell said.

"Naturally the first championship is still the biggest one for me," Coach Red Auerbach said.

"But when we broke the record for victories this year I really wanted to win to prove we were the greatest team."

Burton, a veteran of better than 30 years of bowling, lost on a chance to take the Class A lead when he blew in the mid-point of his fourth game. His 905 total was just 10 for victories this year I really wanted to win to prove we were the greatest team."

Burton needed an even 200 game to tie Schmeidel or a 201 to take the lead. In the fifth frame of the last game he missed the head pin and left the 1, 3 and 6 pins. On his second effort he missed the whole group for what proved to be deciding.

The surprising fact about Burton's success is that he is not a regular in any league. He has substituted in several circuits during the past season and his highest number of games in any one circuit was about 40 in the scratch league at Kimberly.

Bulging Handicap
Schneider rolled 651 for the four games and carried a bulging handicap total of 236 for his 887 in Class B. His top game was a 190 in the third line.

Two past Bowl-O-Rama champions participated in the tournament over the weekend. Al Erdman, Neenah, last year's Class A men's champion, had a little difficulty finding the strike pocket and finished with a 689 Sunday. Last year he won with $485.

Burton Hits 905 Count In Class A

BY JIM HARP

The lead changed hands in one division, and new names appeared in the runnerup spots in two classes as a heavy weekend of kegling was recorded in the Post-Crescent third annual Bowl-O-Rama at the 41 Bowl.

Dorothy Kolitsch, Appleton, grabbed first place in women's Class B with a 4-game total of 760 to replace Sharon Langer, Weyauwega, by two pins.

Jack Burton, of Kimberly, went into second place in men's Class A with a 905 count. Glen Nau, Appleton, had gained second place, temporarily with an 888, but he dropped to third on the strength of Burton's total.

In the men's Class B division, Marvin Schneider, Appleton, went into second place with 807, for the only change in the top five places of the section.

Changes Recorded
Keglers in women's Class A warmed up and changes were recorded in the third, fourth and fifth places. Margaret Kronschabel, Appleton, moved into their with a 747 Saturday night. Sunday, Mary Jane Springer, Menasha, rolled 742 to take fourth place and Evelyn Steinauer, Hortonville, fired a 738 for fifth spot.

Other changes in the women's Class B section included Pauline Stouree, Weyauwega, taking over fourth with a 721 total and Genevieve Rath, Appleton, moving into fifth with a 714.

After a slow start, Dorothy Kolitsch vaulted into the Class B lead on the strength of a 180 third game and 190 finale. She clipped off seven strikes in her last two games and opened her fourth line with a turkey. She fired 652 scratch for the four games, carried 108 pins of handicap and finished with the 760 total.

Dome Problem Better, but Not Solved

Spahn Stops Giants on 7 Hits

BY MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

There is nothing like a dome in the world. There is no ball park called home.

That has quirks like a dome. —Houston Astros, 1965

That refrain may become quite popular in Houston, where the Astros have played their first day game under painted panes — and found the tinted skylights on the $31 million stadium may not have fully solved a glaring problem.

With the 5,496 panes in the roof of the Astrodomes painted white in an attempt to keep out the glare of the sun, the Astros defeated Pittsburgh, 5-4, in 11 innings Sunday, completing the first test of the new system without any of 16 fly balls being dropped.

Some Dissenters
And it seemed like the problem had been solved. Paul Richards, general manager of the club, said so. But there of walks, and Joe Morgan's sin were dissenters.

"It is a lot better but there are still some problems," said Houston center fielder Jim Wynn. "I lost one ball but managed to find it."

"When the sun is really shining brightly I don't believe you'll be able to see the ball," said right fielder Roberto Clemente of the Pirates, who pointed out that the day was slightly overcast.

"They need to paint it a dark, Lourdes-at-Kimberly, tennis or color," suggested Pittsburgh left fielder Willie Stargell. "One 3:30 p.m. Tuesday. The match thing for certain, you can't take it will be switched to Oshkosh. Your eye off the ball. I think they ought to paint it black."

The May 11 meeting of the teams will be held in Kimberly.

Winning Run
All the other teams were rained out.

The Astros pushed across the winning run in the 11th on a sun-dar, general manager of the club by Bob Aspromonte, a pair Astros, thought so. But there of walks, and Joe Morgan's sin were dissenters.

John Bateman hit a homer for Houston, his fourth, for a 3-1 lead in the fifth but the Pirates came from behind twice to tie it before Morgan's game-winner.

Betsy Rawls Wins $8,500 Pensacola Golf Tournament

Pensacola, Fla. (AP)—Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C., shrugged off slow, rainy soaked greens and won the $8,500 Pensacola Ladies Invitation at Golf Tournament Sunday.

Miss Rawls went four over par on the final round of the 54-hole tournament, played over the 6,854-yard, par 35-34-72 scenic Hills Country Club course. But she finished three strokes ahead of Clifford Ann Creed with a 218 total.

Miss Rawls collected $1,275 for her victory. Miss Creed got $1,035 for her second-place 221. Jo Ann Prentice finished third with a total of 222 and collected $850.

Marilyn Smith and Patty Berg, each finishing at 225, tied for fourth and won $625. Mickey Wright finished fifth at 226 for $485.

Jerry West Sets One-Year Scoring Mark

Averages 40.6 Per Tilt for NBA Playoff Record

BOSTON (AP)—Boston won its seventh straight National Basketball Association championship Sunday, but Los Angeles' star Jerry West captured a Stengel to 44-year-old Warren Stengel's share of the playoff satisfaction.

With 33 points in the 129-96 Laker loss, West wound up with successful southpaw in baseball Spahn who won 20 games 13 447 in 11 games and a one-year history to inform the infield that seasons for the Boston and Milwaukee high scoring average of a possible double play ball was waukee Braves, was 6-13 last 40.6 He replaces injured team-mate Elgin Baylor in that department. Baylor scored at a 38.6 clip in 1962.

West also clicked on 137 free throws for a one year playoff mark, bettering the previous after the Mets had fallen 5-0 in old rookie Ron Swoboda off standard of 134 set by George Mikan of Minneapolis in 1950.

West's career playoff scoring average of 38.5 enabled him to vault over Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson (30.0) into the runner-up spot behind Baylor's 32.4.

Heinsohn Fourth
West jumped from 13th to 14th in career playoff scoring with 1,649 points Boston's Tom Heinsohn moved past Bob Cousy and Dolph Schayes into fourth with 2,058 while team-mate Bill Russell moved up to fifth with 2,240 followed by Mikan, 2,141, Baylor, 2,136, Heinsohn, Cousy, 2,018, Schayes, 1,973, Russell, St. Louis' Cliff Hagan, 1,721, West, Philadelphia's Wilt Chamberlain, 1,568 and Boston's Sam Jones with 1,551.

The Celtics shattered a championship playoff mark by scoring 29 field goals in one quarter — the fourth they thus erased a previous standard of 17 made against them here by the Lakers April 8, 1962.

Russell strengthened his playoff career leadership in minutes played and rebounds — he has 2,403 in the latter category. And he's still runner-up to Cousy in playoff assists with 366.

Heinsohn is the all-time leader in field goals (1,818) and personal fouls and his 104 games is second only to Cousy's 109.

'I'll Take 18 More' Forgot Fundamentals Last Year, Spahn Says

BY RON BERGMAN

San Francisco (AP)—

Had he heard correctly? Those "congratulations," the old man said to the middle-aged man. The middle-aged man peered unbelievably at the old man.

The score was 4-3 for the Mets with one out in the ninth inning of the second game Sunday. And it stayed that way on a two-run homer by 20-year-old Stengel to 44-year-old Warren Stengel's share of the playoff satisfaction.

Chevalier Magic Still Waxing Strong at 77

As Old as Eiffel Tower, Charming Frenchman Embarks on One-Man Show

BY JORIE LUELOFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Two French institutions are the same age, and at times it seems a toss-up as to which will endure the longer — the Eiffel Tower or Maurice Chevalier.

The ageless Frenchman — actually he will be 77 on Sept. 12 — recently embarked on a project from which most entertainers would flinch — a one-man show consisting of only himself and piano accompaniment. Enthusiastic audiences are reaffirming the fact that the Chevalier magic is still going strong.

"I feel that I have never been in such wonderful contact with the people," he says in the vivid French lilt that has charmed generations of Americans. "It's wonderful to go across so many years and still go deeper in the affection of the people."

Health Important His own happy analysis of the Chevalier phenomenon is sprinkled with words like luck, marvel, wonder and miracle.

"First," he says, "there's the luck of keeping enough health to do it. And secondly, it must be that I'm more a personality than an actor. I'm just natural. Maybe they feel a little bit of the warmth I've always had in my way of living. I go through new fashions, new generations — I think that's my luck."

"To be able to be what I am in a profession where things go roaring and roaring and roaring," he sums up with a lot of raspy French R's, "that's my little miracle!"

Going to Boston When his four-week New York run ends in early May, Chevalier

Carbon Monoxide Kills 4 Aboard Luxury Yacht

SARNIA, Ont. (AP) — The deaths of four persons aboard a luxury yacht Saturday were attributed today as due to carbon monoxide gas.

Autopsies showed the four had asphyxiated below deck, officials said.

Coroner W. D. Logie of this Canadian port city on the St. Clair River said a "very heavy concentration" of monoxide gas had caused death. A pet dachshund also died.

Found dead aboard the 50-foot cruiser Lady D when she docked here on an overnight trip from Detroit were the vessel's owners, John Dunn Jr., 40, Warren, Mich., and Cass Flowers, 47, Hamtramck, and Flowers' wife, Sophie, 44, and a guest, Joyce Brinkhoff, 23, Littleton, Colo.

Capt. Donald Winter, 35, East Detroit, skipper in charge of the Lady D's first trip of the new Great Lakes pleasure boat season, said he discovered the deaths after docking.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duval, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duval, Ph.D.

ARE TODAY'S TEENS SAVING MONEY? YES ☐ NO ☐

Yes. A recent nationwide survey found nine out of 10 high school students saving something. Forty per cent say they save whatever is left after they have bought what they need. Another 30 per cent save a definite amount every week, and about 12 per cent are really determined to put money aside. They say they "save all they can even if it means having to do without things they need." They know what they want and they are willing to save for it.

Who have the most mental illness?

The poor — The wealthy — The poor, and by a considerable difference. One study by Hillingshead and Redlich found that the very poor have about three times as much mental illness per capita as do the wealthy. There are several reasons for this difference. Since the mentally ill often cannot hold down a job, mental illness becomes a major cause for poverty. On the other hand, the poor are beset with many problems unknown to the rich and have fewer resources within themselves for handling them.

6-7:30 (Channel 11) — Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea again takes a rocky ride that any experienced sailor would avoid as it begins its summer repeat series with "The Price of Doom." The Seaview faces a murky finale when the samples of marine life mysteriously expand. Repeat.

7-8 (Channel 4-5) — Another adventure series, The Man From U.N.C.L.E., also starts its summer schedule of reruns by returning its very first episode, "The Vulcan Affair." Here we first learn of the far-out powers of Napoleon Solo (Robert Vaughn) and the far-out menacing tricks of Thrush. Repeat.

7-7:30 (Channel 2) — "Opie and the Carnival" on The Andy Griffith Show gives youngster Ronny Howard one of his most appealing assignments yet. The tyke, a crack sharpshooter, is determined to win his dad (Andy) an electric razor at a shooting gallery. The operators (comment of the worse kind) want him to settle for sleazy elephants.

8-8:30 (Channel 2) — On The Lucy Show, Jack Benny pops up as an unlikely plumber to fix Lucy's pipes and immediately runs into stormy water with the comedienne, who isn't convinced that he isn't the "real Jack Benny." Repeat.

8-9 (Channel 4-5) — The Andy Williams Show has another noisy session, with the emphasis on broad humor and bombastic music. Comedienne Phyllis Diller pops up to show Andy and trumpeter Al Hirt how to toss a wild salad. (COLOR)

8-9:30 (Channel 11) — The Bing Crosby Show brings back "Exactly Like Who?," which may prove that two Crosbys are better than one. The eldest of Bing's clan, Gary, shows up as a glib song promoter eager to teach the young females all the modern, tuneless "yeahs-yeahs." Repeat.

9-10 (Channel 4-5) — "The Second Wife" on The Alfred Hitchcock Hour tells the old tale of a mail order bride who fears her groom would rather play how-to-murder-your-wife than post office.

9-10 (Channel 11) — Ben Casey has a fairly reasonable and engrossing episode with "The Day They Stole County General." Howard DaSilva gives a bravo performance as a wily Greek, who wishes he had as much money as Onassis.

Tragic World War I Battle Of Gallipoli 50 Years Ago

By Hal McClure

ing Churchill, Lord Kitchener, Akdogan, still is spry and alert at 73. The invasion caught his secretary of state for war, and Lord Fisher, first sea lord, since the tragic nightmare Gallipoli, the World War I battle that killed thousands and destroyed the reputations of many who were in command here.

Gallipoli is nearly forgotten today, but until World War II the 1915 Allied invasion of the Turkish-held Gallipoli Peninsula was the largest amphibious operation in modern military history.

Unfortunately for the Allies, it also was a numbing series of blunders and lost opportunities. In nine months of fighting they reached none of their objectives. They suffered 252,000 casualties. Turkish losses were about equal.

Churchill Career

The career of Winston Churchill, who as First Lord of the British Admiralty was held largely responsible for the campaign, went into abrupt decline. He later was vindicated.

To mark the 50th anniversary of Gallipoli this weekend, a group of 350 Australian and New Zealand veterans, called the Anzacs, will tour the battlefields across the Dardanelles from this little provincial capital.

Turks will welcome them and join in simple ceremonies.

Trenches in the precipitous heights along the southern coast are weed-choked now and all but hidden from view. Rusty bully beef cans, ammunition canisters and rotting boots lie in jumbled heaps under scraggly, thorny bushes.

Gulls wheel high over the Aegean sea and wind sweeps through cypress and pines bordering the Allied cemeteries.

Turkish workers employed by the British Commonwealth War Graves Commission tend the burial plots.

50 Years Ago

Fifty years ago 75,000 British, French and Anzac troops sailed in 200 ships for an attempt to capture the peninsula — and the heavily fortified Dardanelles.

Turkey had entered the war on Germany's side the preceding October. The Allies hoped to force the straits, permitting the British fleet to enter the Sea of Marmora to attack Constantinople — now Istanbul.

The move was intended to give Russia a respite and open shipping lanes from the Mediterranean to the Black Sea. There was also the possibility of a flanking movement through the Balkans to aid Allied troops pinned down by trench warfare in Europe.

British Prime Minister Henry Asquith's War Council, including Churchill, Lord Kitchener, Akdogan, still is spry and alert at 73. The invasion caught his secretary of state for war, and Lord Fisher, first sea lord, since the tragic nightmare Gallipoli, the World War I battle that killed thousands and destroyed the reputations of many who were in command here.

The invasion caught his secretary of state for war, and Lord Fisher, first sea lord, since the tragic nightmare Gallipoli, the World War I battle that killed thousands and destroyed the reputations of many who were in command here.

The opening move, put into operation largely on the urging of Churchill, was a naval attack March 18, 1915, on the Dardanelles forts. The Allied fleet lost six ships, including two battleships.

The Turks, under the command of German Gen. Liman von Sanders, were delighted. The fleet failed to press the attack and finally withdrew.

After the war the Turkish general staff said the Allies might have won if they had returned to the fight March 19. The Turks were short of ammunition.

A large-scale invasion by troops under the command of British Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton, a veteran of the Boer War, followed a month later.

British troops were to land at Cape Helles, the southern tip of the Peninsula. Anzac soldiers were to come ashore farther to the northwest and the French zacs, will tour the battlefields were to hit the Asian coast beyond the Dardanelles from a diversionary move.

A Fiasco

It was a fiasco. Most of Hamilton's troops were green.

The Australians and New Zealanders were put ashore on a bully beef cans, ammunition canisters and rotting boots lie in jumbled heaps under scraggly, landed.

Hamilton, in the early stages, remained on the battleship Queen Elizabeth, out of contact with both his staff and the troops ashore.

Punishing Turkish fire poured into the British invaders as they waded ashore near the village of Sedd-el-Bahr (Seddulbahr) at Cape Helles.

A British airman flying over the scene said the sea was "red with blood . . . a horrible sight to see."

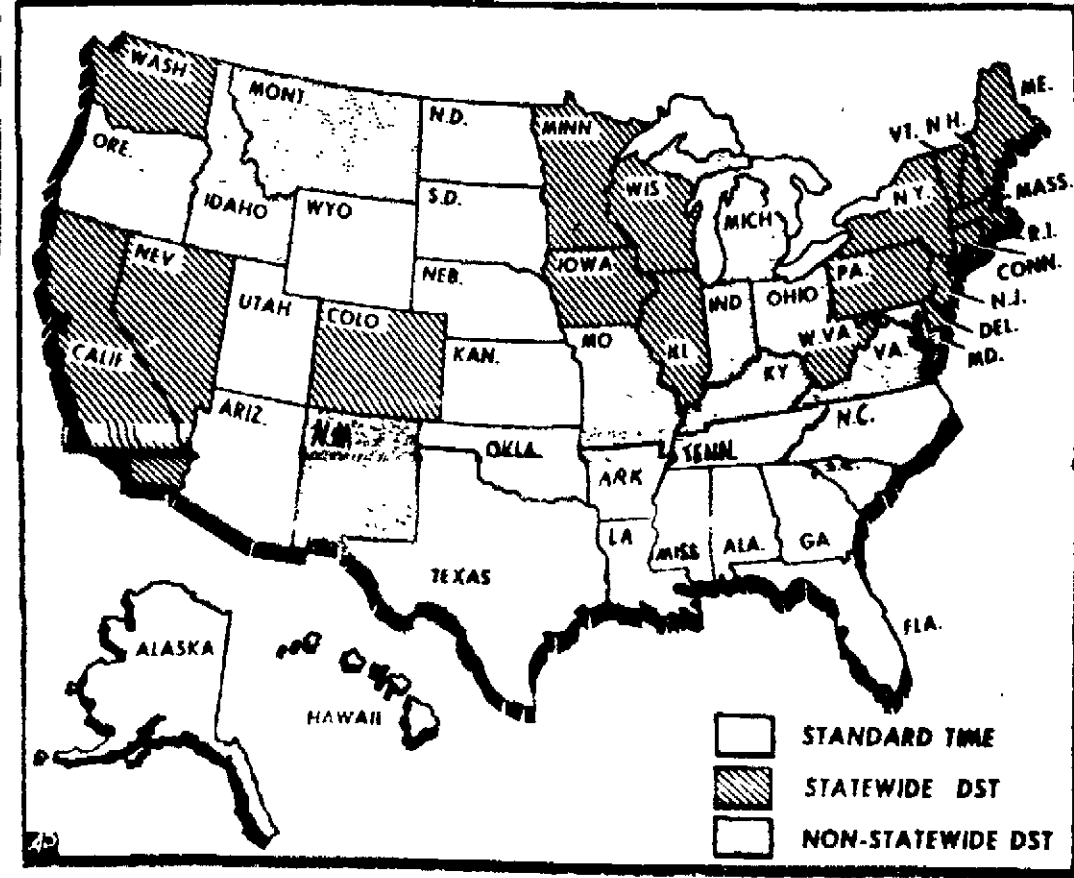

The Anzacs were also in a difficult spot, a maze of brush-filled gullies and steep cliffs. Still and all, they might have succeeded had it not been for one brilliant Turkish officer—Lt. Col Mustafa Kemal.

Became President

He would become a general, "The Savior of Gallipoli" and later Turkey's first president. Ataturk.

Without higher authority he showed in reinforcements to halt the Anzacs, commanding his troops: "I don't order you to attack. I order you to die."

U. S. Would Participate in Cambodia Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has notified Britain and several other countries of the effort it was good to go as far as we did.

"Not to persevere — that was the crime."

The lessons learned about such a meeting.

The U.S. readiness to attend the combined land-sea operations and modern maneuver at Gallipoli was announced Sunday night by Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

that it will "gladly participate" in a proposed nine-nation conference on Cambodia. Such a gathering could lead to informal talks on ending the Vietnamese war.

The decision to participate in a Cambodian conference, if one is called, was made last week by President Johnson. He already has decided that he would name Ambassador W. Averell Harriman as U.S. delegate to the board authorization of a grant for county assistance would be invalid under existing laws.

CAP Wants Aid Provision by Legislature

Proposed Law Would Permit Counties To Allocate Funds

MADISON — Officers and enlisted fliers of the Wisconsin Civil Air Patrol have appealed to the legislature to authorize county governments to make nominal financial contributions to the local CAP units to supplement the substantial public service contributions of the CAP members in time and money.

There was no opposition at a State Senate hearing to legislation sponsored by Sen. Gerald Lorge of Bear Creek that would permit counties to spend money for such purposes.

Men and women members of the CAP turned out to explain the public values of the air search and rescue work and other emergency services of the local living units, which one officer said probably aggregates $500 to $700 a year in cash expenditures per member, besides untold hours of flying time.

Now Invalid

Capt. Erwin Roberts of Appleton, head of the CAP chapter in the Fox Cities, explained that the bill resulted from a legal finding in Outagamie County recently that a proposed county board authorization of a grant for county assistance would be invalid under existing laws.

Pair Jailed After Beating Two Youths

PORTAGE (AP) — Columbia County Dist. Atty. David Bennett said two Pewaukee men who allegedly forced a pair of high school students to take them on a wild trip were being held in jail here.

Bennett said two men he identified as Harry Knipfel, 31, and Thomas Biancuzzo, 22, were taken into custody Sunday in Portage, where the reported captives escaped at a gasoline station.

The youths, both 17 and both Hartford High School seniors, said the men had gotten into their car at North Lake in Waukesha County and beat them several times. Both suffered bruises and one a broken nose, Bennett said. They were released after treatment at a Portage hospital.

Bennett said the men fled on foot after the youths ran into a restaurant next to the service station and called the sheriff's department. The men were seized by six Columbia County sheriff's police.

Chicago Man Drowns Sunday In Wolf River

Boat Swamps Near
Templeton Bayou;
Woman Is Rescued

FREMONT — A 50-year-old Chicago man became Waupaca County's first 1965 water victim Sunday when he drowned in the Wolf River near Templeton Bayou.

The body of Vesper Young was recovered from the Wolf River about 4 p.m. Sunday by Gordon Pulf and Jerry Looker, two of about 20 volunteers organized into a dragging crew by Fremont Fire Chief Gordon Toepke. The body was taken by Bauer Ambulance to Weyauwega.

Young and the 44-year-old woman who identified herself as his wife, had been fishing near Fremont and were returning to Gills Landing, where they had left their car, when their 12-foot aluminum boat was swamped, by a wave. According to the Waupaca County Sheriff's department, Young drowned about 1:30 p.m.

The woman, who was wearing a life jacket, was rescued by Alerd Luebben, Hillside, Ill., and Mike Lizalek, Cicero, Ill., who heard her screams for help. The two Illinois men said they had seen the couple a short time before the incident. When they spotted her, Young, who was not wearing a life jacket, was still on the surface of the water but he went under before they could reach him. He could not swim.

Turn in Alarm

They alerted another passing fisherman who turned in the alarm to Theodore Lantvit at the Pine Grove resort. Lantvit called the volunteer fire department and sent his brother, John, North Riverside, Ill., to the drowning scene. John took the woman from Big Bend, which is six to eight miles

Gunfire Reported In Strike-Tense Tennessee Town

LAWRENCEBURG, Tenn. (AP) — Snipers, armed with shotguns and rifles, fired overnight on two cars and a house owned by nonstriking employees of the Murray Ohio Manufacturing Co. police reported today.

Sheriff Harold Brown reported the incidents, in which no one was injured, as about 1,000 non-strikers drove to work without incident past four Teamsters Union pickets.

It was the first time the plant had been opened since an agreement was reached for the withdrawal of state troopers, who had policed picketing activities around the plant all last week.

Two pickets on each gate walked back and forth across the two access roads to the sprawling facility. But they made no effort to stop cars, and did not cross the roads when cars were entering the plant.

Oppenheimer Plans to Resign

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, who directed the nation's atomic bomb project during the last two years of World War II, plans to resign as director of the Institute for Advanced Study.

Oppenheimer, 61, said Saturday he will resign in June 1966 but would continue at the institute as senior professor of theoretical physics.

Broadcast Conference Slated by Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson will hold a news conference Tuesday in the White House, and live radio and television broadcast will be permitted. No time has been set.

Johnson said more than a month ago he would have about one news conference a month with advance notice. This is the first such conference since then.

Boy Sniper Sprays Road With Bullets

Score Is 2 Dead, 11 Injured;
Youth Turns Rifle on Self
After Battling With Officers

SANTA MARIA, Calif. (AP) — A 16-year-old boy, hidden by waving grass on a windy hillside, fired down with a high-powered rifle on passing cars on busy U. S. 101 Sunday. Michael Andrew Clark killed two persons and injured 11, engaged officers in a gunfight for 1½ hours and then took his own life by shooting himself between the eyes.

Authorities said the sniper's parents, Forrest and Joyce Clark of Long Beach, 200 miles south of the battle scene, reported the boy had run away from home Saturday night in the family car. Sunday afternoon the couple identified their son's clothes, broken eyeglasses, a cigarette lighter emblazoned with a Playboy bunny emblem — and his body.

Officers quoted Mrs. Clark as saying "I just can't understand it. I'd like to talk to those poor people who were shot at. But what can I say?"

Of the wounded, two were critically hurt — Bill Reid, 42, of Norwalk, shot in the neck and shoulder, and his son, Kevin Dean, 5, shot in the head. The child was in critical condition after brain surgery at Santa Barbara's Cottage Hospital, 160 miles south. Another son, Kim opposed to the return to power of ex-President Juan D. Bosch. Rebel army forces passed out rifles and machine guns to about 3,000 civilians. Another 10,000 to 15,000 civilians were reported to be in possession of bottled gasoline bombs for use against any tank attack. Gasoline stations passed out gasoline free.

Two air force planes strafed a rebel army barracks behind the presidential palace, where ousted civilian junta leader Donald Reid Cabral is being held for his own safety. There was no report on damage.

5 Passes

Two other planes made five strafing passes at Duarete Bridge, where rebel tanks and artillery guarded the only route into the capital for the tanks stationed at San Isidro air base.

At the base, Brig. Gen. Elias Wessin held command of about 1,500 troops and about 30 tanks. Although he appears to have accepted the forced resignation Sunday of Reid's junta, he is opposed to the return of Bosch, a liberal living in exile in Puerto Rico.

N. Viet Nam Combat Unit's Infiltration South Is Cited

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said today Communist North Vietnamese aggression against South Viet Nam "has grown progressively more flagrant and unconstrained."

He said the latest step in what he called the intensification "is the covert infiltration of a regular combat unit of the North Vietnamese army into South Viet Nam."

McNamara made his statement at a nationally televised news conference in which he reviewed nearly three months of U.S. bombing attacks against roads, bridges, railroads and other military installations in north Viet Nam AA all designed to cut down the infiltration of men and supplies into the South.

Air Strikes
"The carefully controlled air strikes will continue as necessary to impede the infiltration and persuade the North Vietnamese leadership that their aggression against the South must stop," McNamara said in a statement.

Until now, U.S. officials have stopped short of saying that any formal units of North Viet

Schumacher Wise to Quit, Knowles Says

Investigation of
Shawano Attorney
Had Been Asked

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
MADISON — The withdrawal of Commissioner Jack Schumacher of Shawano from conservation commission affairs affecting the Menominee Indians was probably a wise decision for him, Gov. Warren Knowles said today.

The governor told a news conference he had been asked to investigate the "conflict of interests" possibility posed by Schumacher's promotion of the sale of Menominee forest lands to the state at a time that he is holding substantial amounts of Indian securities representing holdings in those lands as collateral for unpaid legal fees.

Potential Conflict
"It would appear that his continued participation in the promotion of the sale might involve a conflict of interests," the governor said when he was asked about Schumacher's recent announcement that he will no longer take part in state policy decisions affecting the Indian community.

In his semi-monthly meeting with capital correspondents, the governor also announced that: 1. Arrangements have been made to assist elderly persons in filing forms for special property tax exemptions. Volunteers will be sent into the field by state agencies to make certain that the maximum number of eligible elderly persons take advantage of the tax relief law before the new deadline July 15.

Flood Tax Break
The state department of taxation will rule that persons who have suffered uninsured flood and tornado losses will be able to take income tax deductions.

Anti-U. S. Riots In Cambodia

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — The U.S. flag was torn from its staff and trampled on the ground in a violent anti-American demonstration before the U.S. Embassy today.

Several thousand demonstrators chanted anti-American slogans and hurled tomatoes and rocks at the embassy. Windows in the front of the building were smashed.

One demonstrator managed to break into the embassy compound and climb to a second-story balcony, where the Stars and Stripes flew from its staff. To the cheers of his comrades, the demonstrator tore the flag from the staff and hurled it to the ground. The mob clutched at the banner, then trampled it.

Space Communications Record

Mariner to Face Many Hurdles on Mars Trip

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The U.S. Mariner 4 spacecraft seems likely to set a new space communications record Thursday although it still will have to hop a heap of hurdles before it succeeds in photographing Mars July 14.

It already has run into the worst space dust storm yet recorded. If it survives this, Mariner 4 faces a deadlier potential danger: a Martian radiation belt like that surrounding earth.

Soviet Limit
Now more than 63 million miles from earth after traveling 229 million miles along its curved flight path, Mariner 4 is scheduled to pass the 66-million-mile mark about 1 a.m. (PDT) Thursday.

That's the point at which the record-holding Soviet Mars 1 spacecraft stopped sending back signals March 21, 1963.

The Soviets never explained

7 East Germans Flee Into West

BRUNSWICK, Germany (AP) — Seven persons, including two East German border guards, fled to West Germany over the weekend, border police reported today.

They said the two guards made their escape while on a patrol of the border area. The other five came across the border south of here, near Goettingen, and included three laborers and a married couple. All made it through the guarded Iron Curtain without incident, police added.

why Mars 1 failed. U.S. scientists believe it was damaged by tiny meteorites which swarm in space between earth and Mars. Mariner 4 has registered 77 hits by micrometeorites since its launching Nov. 28, compared with only two for Mariner 2 in a similar period of its trip to Venus in 1962. These hits were recorded on a 2-inch-diameter sensor. Scientists figure the whole 10x22-foot spacecraft has been scored by hundreds of times that many particles.

One of Mariner 4's six instruments has gone dead and another is not functioning well, but the rest of the 575-pound craft seems to be in good shape.

Serious Hazards
Jet Propulsion Laboratory officials say there are at least two hazards more serious than micrometeorites: the chance some of its parts may wear out on the 228-day journey, and intense radiation trapped in Mars' magnetic field — if the planet has one.

Intense radiation could damage Mariner 4's television camera, its transmitter or the solar panels which convert sunlight into electrical power for its instruments.

No magnetic field was found around Venus, possibly because that planet rotates too slowly to generate such a field. Mars rotates almost as fast as earth and scientists are virtually certain it has a magnetic field.

One of the instruments aboard Mariner 4 is designed especially to measure the extent and intensity of Mars' radiation belt. This information will be radioed back to earth — if the spacecraft survives the radiation.

U.S. Missiles Aimed At Red Chinese Targets

BY HARRY KELLY
WASHINGTON (AP) — A top Air Force missile general says the United States has targets picked out in Red China and could destroy key government, command and industrial centers in the event of a general war.

The officer, Maj. Gen. John P. Lavelle, indicated Peking's new

Ike Endorses Johnson Policy in Viet Nam In Strong Statement

INDIO, Calif. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower has endorsed President Johnson's Viet Nam policy in what is believed to be his strongest public commentary on the issue since bombing of North Viet Nam began in February.

Eisenhower told 1,500 Republicans gathered to honor him Saturday: "In Viet Nam the way the President is conducting operations is very good indeed for the United States."

nuclear facility was one of those targets.

Lavelle, a deputy chief of staff and director of aerospace programs, testified Feb. 23 on the Air Force budget at a closed hearing of a House Appropriations subcommittee. His censored testimony was made public today.

Lavelle said in reply to questions that the United States, if attacked, would have the capability of simultaneously hitting targets in Red China, the Soviet Union and "a satellite area." He said the missiles would inflict what the Pentagon calls "unacceptably high levels of destruction."

Industry Spread
However, he noted Red China's industry "is spread out in small factories everywhere and we would not have the same capacity with the Chinese industry."

But, Lavelle added, "our theater forces should be able to inflict an unacceptable level of destruction" on Red China. He did not elaborate on what he meant by theater forces. Presumably he was referring to Air Force and other units in the Pacific area rather than to strategic missiles and bombers.

Hospital Fund Drive Passes $760,000

St. Elizabeth Volunteers To Continue Solicitations

Contributions to the St. Elizabeth Hospital and Medical Center fund campaign have passed campaign expenses — just over the three-quarter million dollar mark, Jack Hayes, campaign chairman, announced Saturday. Public support in the two volunteered their time. Many of campaigns thus far is almost $2 million. About $1.2 million was required also were donated or raised in 1962.

"With $762,061 pledged or paid toward the current $2,000,000 goal, we still are a long way from completing the job," the house-to-house section of the Hayes said. "However, the drive, told the board that community need has not lessened formal solicitation through visits to homes will be completed by May 10."

William H. Pifer, chairman of the hospital's finance committee, told the advisory board this week that only $8,108 has been spent so far on all current campaign expenses — just over the three-quarter million dollar mark, Jack Hayes, campaign chairman, announced Saturday. Public support in the two volunteered their time. Many of campaigns thus far is almost $2 million. About $1.2 million was required also were donated or raised in 1962.

Porath Loses Appeal on Tax Counts

Former Fond du Lac Attorney in Florida Is Bound Over

Peter J. Porath, 33, former Fond du Lac attorney, lost an appeal Friday to have two counts of state income tax evasion held in abeyance for an indefinite period.

Simon Horwitz, an Oshkosh attorney, said the former Fond du Lac attorney, who was recently disbarred in Wisconsin, at the present time cannot afford costly litigation. Porath is charged with failure to pay income taxes in 1960 and 1963 in the amount of $6,000.

Porath, now working as a law clerk in Tampa, Fla., was not at the hearing in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Horwitz waived a preliminary hearing set for Porath Wednesday and Porath was bound over for reading of the information May 11 Bond of $1,000 was continued.

Lost Job
Horwitz said his client had lost a lucrative job in Tampa, Fla., and had taken a new paying law clerk's job in hopes of paying off an accumulated amount of debts.

His attorney did not indicate whether Porath would appear to make pleas to the income tax charge on May 11.

Porath's license was revoked in Wisconsin due to certain financial dealings which he had with clients.

He also represented Mrs. Amy Summers, widow of a Fond du Lac cheesemaker, Leo Summers, whose body was found burned in his abandoned automobile two years ago. Although the death was ruled a suicide Mrs. Summers claimed her husband had been murdered.

Architect to Revise Waupaca Jail Plans

Board Defers Tower Request

Delay Made in Approval of TV Facility at Fairchild

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The state board of aeronautics has declined to grant immediate approval for a 2,000 foot television transmission tower in northwestern Wisconsin and has announced that it will hold a public hearing on the construction application of an Eau Claire broadcaster.

The hearing will be in Eau Claire during the next 20 days on the plan of WEAU-TV of Eau Claire to build a new tower at a site north of the village of Fairchild to replace a 1,000 foot structure now in operation on the outskirts of Eau Claire.

Don Olson of Two Rivers, chairman of the commission who described himself as a "lame duck member," insisted upon a delay in commission action to permit interested persons including fliers to testify if they choose to do so. Olson's term as a commission member will expire during the next week, and thus it is unlikely that he will take part in the final decision.

It's Back to the Drawing Board For the Sixth Time; Latest Site Is Courthouse Square

WAUPACA — Work has started on the sixth set of plans for a new Waupaca County jail. The new design will be a two-story structure that can be placed on the courthouse square but not attached to the courthouse.

The move to continue seeking a satisfactory design came Wednesday when the county board learned they could not use the Cartwright property on Royall Street for the new jail because of a restrictive zoning ordinance. Supervisors indicated they were not satisfied with the plans prepared for the courthouse square.

Three of the plans have been for the square site but objections have been raised against all of them. The three-story building would require too much help and one designed for the south side of the courthouse would mean cutting down the elm trees. The last plan was a one-story design calling for removal of the present jail, but objections were raised when it was learned that some of the courthouse windows would be blocked.

Drawing Boards
On the drawing boards now is a design which was recommended by Supv. Harold Dushek of Waupaca who said Wednesday that the building should be designed so it would not follow the irregular courthouse wall. The new design also will call for the removal of the present jail.

State Seeks Direct Election Of President

Legislature Wants Electoral College System Abandoned

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The United States Congress may initiate a constitutional amendment to abandon the electoral college method of electing the president and vice president if it heeds the advice of the Wisconsin legislature as inspired by two young law-makers from Outagamie and Shawano counties.

Both houses of the state legislature have adopted a "memorial" to Congress asking for a constitutional change to provide for direct popular election of president and vice president and the elimination of the electoral college.

The resolution is based upon the familiar and long-standing complaint that the electoral college system is unresponsive and unfair because a presidential candidate losing a state by a close margin forfeits all of that state's electoral votes. The popular vote count would provide an accurate measure of the popular decision, the resolution declares.

Authors of the resolution were Assemblymen Herbert Grover of Shawano and William Rogers of Kaukauna. Democrats.

They said the electoral college system of choosing national leaders is uncertain because the electors are not constitutionally bound to follow the popular vote, and undemocratic because a minority of the popular vote can, and on occasion has, cast a majority of the electoral votes and elect a president.

Truman Experience Key to Johnson Acts

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson couldn't miss the lesson from the Truman administration's experience book of 15 years ago. Johnson was in the Senate then and he lived through it.

This can explain why news stories, without revealing their sources, over the weekend said the Johnson administration, although seeing no need for them now, has not ruled out using nuclear weapons in Viet Nam.

If this administration ever indicated it would never use such weapons, and then the Vietnamese war took a grim turn, his critics could say he had invited the Communists to get tougher.

This was what happened to President Harry S. Truman, although in different fashion.

In the late 1940s the United States had a long and unhappy time of it with Chiang Kai-shek in his war against the Red Chinese. American aid and weapons were wasted.

Drove Chiang Off The Reds drove Chiang off the China mainland in late 1949. He and the Nationalist troops he had left fled to Formosa. Truman publicly washed his hands of the Nationalist leader in talking to newsmen on Jan. 5, 1950.

The president said this country would take no action to save Formosa from a Red invasion. Secretary of State Dean Acheson backed him up, saying Chiang had enough money to buy all the arms he needed.

The two men made these statements after some Republicans — particularly former President Herbert Hoover and Sen. Robert A. Taft — had urged defense of Formosa by the U. S. Navy.

After Truman's hands-off announcement there were more Republican protests. The Republican Senate leader, Kenneth S. Wherry, said Truman's position was an invitation to the Communists to take Formosa.

Truman later had to do an about-face and send the Navy to protect Formosa — and it has been doing that ever since — but this was only after the start of the Korean war later that year.

Only One But this was only one of the statements which were later used against the Truman administration. On Jan. 12, 1950, seven days after Truman's hands-off talk Acheson made a public talk he was never allowed to forget.

He said the American "defensive perimeter" in the Pacific ran from the Alutian Islands to Japan and down through the Ryukyu Islands, south of Japan, to the Philippines. He didn't mention Formosa.

And he didn't put Korea within the defensive perimeter. But he added something which certainly could apply to Korea but which his critics later ignored or found it convenient to forget.

He said: No one could guarantee other Pacific areas from attack but if it came the people attacked would have to depend first on their own resistance and then upon the "civilized world" through the United Nations.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur drew the same perimeter a few months later but Acheson's critics never seemed to remember that.

Distorted Words But after the North Korean Communists attacked South Korea in June, 1950, Sens. Joseph McCarthy and Taft distorted Acheson's words by saying he had announced the United States would not defend Korea.

This distortion continued to be used against Acheson long afterwards. Actually, as soon as the Reds attacked on June 25, the United Nations called for a cease-fire. The Reds ignored this.

The next day, June 26, Truman ordered American forces to Korea and was immediately backed by the United Nations. III

Third Child Dies Of Injuries in Carnival Ride

DETROIT (AP) — A carnival amusement ride that collapsed at a suburban shopping center claimed the life of a third child Sunday, shortly after two state legislators said they would push for safety inspection laws.

Nancy Lee Matthies, 8, died of injuries suffered in the Saturday accident in Taylor Township that killed Sharon Hawks, 14, and her brother, Grant Thomas Hawks, 12.

The three were riding the "Sky Comet" with Nancy's sister, Susan Raye Matthies, 10, and a cousin, Bonnie Matthies, 8, both of whom are in critical condition.

Police said they think a connecting shackle broke, dropping the bucket seat to the ground where it was dragged some 75 yards before the machine could be turned off.

Fire Unbearable, But So Is Black Bear

SILVER CITY, N.M. (AP) — It wasn't Smokee the Bear that charged a group of Indian firefighters Sunday.

The Indians were among 189 men fighting a 250-acre fire in the Gila National Forest east of Silver City when a black bear broke through the fire line after things got too hot.

A U.S. Forest Service official said it took quite some time to fight the Sunday.

This was when Truman also ordered Formosa defended.

Truman had several thoughts about using the A-bomb in Korea. On July 27, three months before Red China got into the war, he said he wasn't even considering it.

After China rushed in, Truman on Nov. 30 told newsmen the United States would use every weapon necessary but didn't want to see the A-bomb used.

Long after he left the White House Truman wrote that MacArthur wanted to use the bomb when the Chinese came in. But, Truman said, that "might very well have brought on World War III."

The sheriff assists the acts as a jailer. A two-story jail without sheriff's living quarters and additional employees would mean an estimated $20,000 a year more cost to the taxpayers, Sheriff Frazier said.

Where the jail will be located and its type will be resolved at a special meeting of the board in May. The date will be set when the jail committee arrives at new site and design recommendations.

The special session will cost the county about $900 to bring supervisors together as a body. It was felt necessary, however, to make a final decision before the August session so that work can start before cold fall weather arrives. It would increase the building costs.

France Balks Again

The government of France has announced that its foreign minister, Maurice Couve de Murville, will not go to Cambodia next month for the meeting of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization's foreign ministers. Allegedly it is using the boycott as a protest against United States policy in Viet Nam.

But there is something deeper here than merely disagreeing with what we are doing. The boycott of SEATO is one more example of President de Gaulle's insistence upon a go-it-alone policy for France. It is in the same pattern as his veto of British entry into the European Economic Organization and his refusal even to consider participation in a NATO multinational nuclear naval force. Of course De Gaulle has the safety of his own nuclear devices because of the military shield in Europe, principally that of the United States Strategic Air Command.

De Gaulle undoubtedly is miffed because the U. S. did not follow his recommendation to get out of Viet Nam. Moreover, he may be concerned intensely that we might succeed where France so disastrously failed little more than a decade ago. He does not want a negotiated settlement for Viet Nam arranged by SEATO but by France and so, in essence, he is refusing even to bring his marbles and join the game.

As long as we understand the emotional background of some of this strategy, France's position may not be so unfortunate. As something of a go-between to Moscow and even to Peking, France may be able to serve as a mediating force and still maintain that all important honneur.

Slap to Shastri

It is quite clear that President Johnson would not win any sort of popular "consensus" in India as of this moment.

The ridiculous course of events which led to sorely hurt feelings for Prime Minister Shastri and further emotional estrangement between India and the United States apparently began with the President's short temper as far as opposition to his own ideas is concerned. Indians had joined in the criticism of our Viet Nam policy, and had joined with other "neutral" nations to ask the cessation of bombing raids while trying to work out negotiations. Communist controlled Indian labor unions had even sought volunteers to fight with the Viet Cong.

Meanwhile Pakistan was continuing on its course of wooing Red China. Anti-Americanism was used as a primary campaign issue by both major parties in last winter's presidential elections and the air line arrangements with Peking were cemented. Apparently President Johnson decided to "postpone" the visit of Pakistan's president, scheduled for May, and decided to make a clean show of his disapproval by doing the same for the Indian prime minister's tour planned for June.

So far Pakistan has rather shrugged off the snub as just one of those things but Shastri irately cancelled his visit to the United States. He will come as planned to Canada but won't even go to the United Nations since it is headquartered in New York City.

We are inclined to sympathize with the attitude of President Johnson. Both Pakistan and India have accepted American aid with enthusiasm while feeling quite free to damn us in the next sentence. Pakistan's new affection for Red China, we may suspect, is in great part because it still considers India its arch enemy. India, meanwhile, to whom we sent military aid to repulse the active attack on Indian borders by the Red Chinese, cannot even observe what might be called the common courtesies in keeping quiet if her government disagrees with our conduct in fighting Communists in another part of Asia. Our immense amount of economic aid to India continues.

And yet, while we think there should be strings attached to our various aid programs, the snub to Shastri in particular seemed to be more a personal matter than a decision by our state department. It is too much in keeping with other reports of President Johnson's intentions of running things his own way, expecting absolute agreement and brooking no counter proposals much less opposition. Maybe this is the way to control a political party and reach the White House; it doesn't do very much for international relations.

Whatever our opinion of the threats to Southeast Asia by Red China through the Viet Minh and Viet Cong and Pathet Lao, it is not a universal opinion by people who live a lot closer to Red China than we do. Certainly we are demonstrating at least our government's concern with the danger by sending active fighting forces to Viet Nam — although it is possible that we never intended to get so seriously involved. But we shouldn't get into a lather because the whole non-Communist world doesn't see things as we do. Efforts toward negotiation are exactly what we should be seeking for Viet Nam rather than a slap in the face to everyone who makes the effort.

India is a long way from being a stable nation economically or politically. In many ways it still thinks it is struggling against colonial oppression. Its people are emotional often to the point of hysteria. We shouldn't be trying to project it in our own image. Its entire cultural background is quite different. Moreover Shastri is not the widely popular figure in India that Nehru was. By snubbing him, the United States could be adding to his troubles and the possibilities of even a less friendly leader like Krishna Menon who is sure to start shouting "I told you so."

We have quite enough enemies in the world today. We don't need to go around insulting those who are at least potentially our friends.

Trails Needed

Plans are under way in western Wisconsin to develop what used to be the roadbed and right-of-way of a railroad for a walking and biking trail. Such trails are increasing throughout the country since the recreational habits of Americans have changed dramatically in the last few years.

With increased leisure time, more and more families are becoming involved in some sort of do-it-yourself vacation plans. Perhaps there is a psychological background for this more active and individualistic type of recreation, too, as our industry becomes more mechanized and organized. The most obvious example of the individualistic sport has been the tremendous growth of skiing in all parts of the nation that can maintain real or artificial snow. The skyrocketing sales of small boats, particularly small cruisers, the jammed camping areas, new interest in fishing and hunting, and what is now estimated as twice as many pleasure horses as five years ago, are other evidence of the interest in individualized family recreation.

Out west, pack trips, both on horseback and on foot, into the wilderness areas of the deep forests and remote mountains are increasing in number and popularity. Rapids running is growing wherever fast rivers still flow. Every winter there are more converts to ice fishing. Even the sales of the tricky skate boards, whatever they do to the nerves of motorists, are indications of more emphasis upon individual sport at one's own speed and inclinations. Hiking trails have been popular in the east for several decades and a long one from New England into the south now is nearing completion.

It is unfortunate in this part of Wisconsin there are few areas left to so develop. The old interurban track from the Fox Cities to Green Bay, for instance, would have been ideal. Door County, a land of great beauty and excellent waterways, is lacking in quiet trails for hikers and bicycling youth hostlers.

The old railroad roadbeds are ideal since they already have fence separations from farm land, small bridges over swamp land and good footing. Whenever lines are abandoned in rural areas, efforts should be made to preserve them for the outdoor seeker who wants to get away from his automobile for awhile.

Looking Backward

Sherman-Johnston Treaty Noted

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for April 20, 1865.

We give place in full to the terms of surrender of the rebel armies of the Confederacy, and the proposed system of re-union agreed upon between Sherman and Johnston (Union Gen. W. T. Sherman and Rebel Gen. J. E. Johnston), but afterwards disapproved by the Administration.

There has been much misrepresentation and misunderstanding abroad relative to the facts which will, in part at least, be dissipated by a perusal of the official document.

If President Lincoln had not been assassinated, it is more than probable that those terms, with slight modifications, would have been adopted

Under existing circumstances, Gen'l Sherman was altogether too liberal. We think, with President Johnson, and with the great mass of the Democratic party, that the "rank and file" — the great body of the people — in the South-States should be forgiven all their offenses against the Union for the sake of the union, but that the main instigators should be forever barred from power and deprived of the opportunity ever again to work wickedness in this land.

Critics of U.S. Viet Nam Policy Ignore Communist Atrocities

BY MAX FREEDMAN
WASHINGTON — Several times in recent weeks President Johnson has expressed his surprise and sadness at the double standard which seems to govern large sections of American opinion as it reacts to the bombings in Viet Nam. The Communist attacks and out-ment is balanced by the restraints and limitations within which the new policy must operate.

President Knows
The President knows the exact numbers and locations of the MIG planes in North Viet Nam. He knows what is happening at the still uncompleted missile sites. He knows what factories and installations must be destroyed at Hanoi to wipe out that Communist capital.

Make no mistake about it. The President has been urged to give the order to attack and destroy every one of these targets. He has even been urged to destroy the primitive nuclear arsenals in China. He has resisted, and rejected, all this advice.

Two reasons have guided his decisions. He has wanted above all else, to avoid any policy which would bring about a larger or more tragic war. Almost equally important has been his determination to keep the attack on civilian centers to the bare minimum. Thus far he has succeeded in both objectives. But the situation is piled high with difficulty and danger; the Communists can force a harsher American response; and the future remains veiled and inscrutable.

Freedman

rages in South Viet Nam tend to be excused or ignored as the inevitable brutalities of war; while a peculiar moral odium is attached by these same people to our air raids in the North.

One is dealing here not with world opinion but with what is felt by Americans about one aspect of American policy. The President's public concern, vehemence and emphasis though it has been at various times, provides no fair index to his private feelings which are even more intense.

Wonders About Critics
He is sorely perplexed by this unfair criticism, believes that is a burden on American policy, and wonders whether these critics realize that they are making it more difficult to reach a final settlement in Viet Nam.

For many months the President has been urged, both in and outside the administration, to adopt a stern military policy against North Viet Nam. He resisted this advice until it seemed that the imperious pressure of events compelled him to widen the American commitment. Without this new commitment accepted painfully and reluctantly, there might have been an utter collapse of morale in South Viet Nam and the disappearance of an effective government in Saigon. In the President's own mind the acceptance of this commitment

Property Taxes Still Rising Despite Credit From State Sales Tax

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
MADISON — Between the lines of the State Department of Taxation's latest edition of its village and city property tax report can be read a fact that the politicians in the State Legislature are not likely to publicize on their own volition. It is the disclosure that less than three years after the enactment of the highly touted local property tax credit system which accompanied the Legislature's reluctant acceptance of general sales taxation, the local tax reductions resulting have been entirely wiped out in the city tax program of Wisconsin as a whole.

Wyngaard

Moreover, there is shown a resumption of the upward march of local taxation, beyond the levels that had been attained in 1962 when the big infusion of state sales tax receipts into the local tax treasuries was ordered.

It is precisely the same story for the village governments of Wisconsin, according to the summaries published by the state tax administration. The town fiscal picture has not yet been reported by the department for 1964. But there is very little doubt that the same findings will apply to the rural governments, although perhaps not in the same degree because of proportionately larger personal property tax relief in rural taxing districts provided by the state.

THE TREND
For purposes of clarity and accuracy of comparisons, the state tax reports use the "equalized" or "full value" factor.

In 1962 the full value tax rate of all Wisconsin cities as determined by the state assessors was just under 29 mills. In that year the first distribution to localities of a share of the new sales tax yield brought the final full value rate equivalent down to about 25.5 mills, which was a substantial reduction.

But three years later, in the 1964 assessment computations, the full value tax rate of city governments in Wisconsin, after taking into account the state sales tax credits, had returned to nearly 27.5 mills. On the basis of the trends shown during the interval, it is a fair presumption that the 1965 figures when completed will show that the burden of local property taxation has returned to the level that had been in effect when the emergency transfusion of state sales tax revenues was arranged.

The story is just about the same in village finance. In the principal taxing districts of Wisconsin, therefore, the burden of levies upon homes and other properties has returned to the level that in 1961 was regarded as painful enough to warrant unprecedented tax sharing with Madison.

Significantly, the tax amelioration so recently designed was erased in spite of an increase in the total equalized valuation of the state of about a billion dollars during the same period.

WHAT NOW?
Is there any prospect of additional legislative action this year to arrest the acceleration of the local property levies?

A realistic account must relate that there is very little chance. Such elasticity as remains in the sales tax base is being proposed to be used by the state administration for the financing of the state budget and its extraordinary inflation. Indeed, there is not enough stretch left there to achieve a state budget balance, as Gov. Knowles has reluctantly conceded in his simultaneous sponsorship of higher personal income tax rates.

The only prospect for further local tax relief, and it is not an especially bright one, is for a modest additional reduction in the personal property tax on commercial and industrial inventories and farm livestock. The administration is asking for a "phase out" program of an additional 10 per cent reduction a year. That will mean, if the Legislature approves, that it will require five more years to attain complete elimination of the personal property tax in those categories.

Strictly Personal Here's Why Statistics Often Are Meaningless

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS
I was waiting for a friend in a cocktail lounge (what a ghastly name) when I overheard the man in the next booth say to his female companion, "Well, yes, I am married . . . but only technically." And I wondered in what other way one can be married except technically?

Harris

His remark — apparently a prelude to seduction — reminded me of what a statistician told me some time ago. It seems that when the last census was taken in Poland, in 1960, it turned out that there were some 200,000 more married women than men in the country.

Matter of Definition
Since each man can have only one wife, there was considerable consternation among the census-takers. Upon closer examination, it was found that the definition of "marriage" was taken by the people to include various forms and states of alliances.

For instance, separated couples were considered divorced, whether or not divorce decrees had yet been awarded. Therefore, common-law wives often told the census-taker they were married, while common-law husbands claimed to be single. Separated wives considered themselves married, while separated husbands did not. The validity of the statistics depended both on what the census-takers called "marriage" and on what the people themselves called "marriage."

While this discrepancy of 200,000 or more "wives" than "husbands" is amusing or shocking, depending on your point of view, it should alert us to adopt a more skeptical reaction to similar statistics we are offered almost daily.

The "unemployment" figures are a good example in our own country. Different organizations will offer figures that are millions apart, because "unemployment" means different things. Some figures include those temporarily between jobs; those just graduated from college; those who have dropped out of high school; wives who once worked and now do no longer; and so on, in a dozen categories.

Others Also Vague
Marriage is a legal state, and employment is an economic state — but there are social and psychological factors at work in both areas that make them difficult to tie down. "Delinquency" and "the crime rate" are also vague and ambiguous concepts, because no two communities or states agree on what they are, or have the same method of reporting them.

Is the death rate from heart disease increasing? Is homosexuality increasing? Both answers seem to be "yes" — but, again, is the first a matter of better diagnosis, and is the second a matter of greater freedom of expression? The world of statistics and the world of reality do not always revolve in the same orbit; and until we can agree on our meanings, our charts will remain nearly meaningless.

U.S. Troubled With Army of Illiterates

BY SYLVIA PORTER

While the headlines are dramatizing the revolutionary steps we are taking to wipe out illiteracy among America's young, they are hiding the grim fact that in our country today is a massive army of adult illiterates and semi-literates.

There are 11.5 million adults in the U.S. now—roughly one in 10 adults—who have less than a sixth grade education.

sages, topped up a bill at a corner grocery store or sign a personal check. He also is often incapable of absorbing training and retraining programs which have become a part of today's industrial life and which are predicted on a knowledge of elementary educational skills.

Impact Stifling

As for our economy as a whole, the impact of illiteracy is obviously stifling. Dr. Edward W. Brice, chief of adult education at the U.S. Office of Education in Washington, actually estimates the economic "drag" caused by illiteracy and undereducation at $100 billion a year—the difference between what illiterates and semi-literates earn and what they could earn with a minimum of basic education.

The direct costs of adult illiteracy run into billions a year, for most adults being supported on welfare programs all, state and local levels. It's fall into this category. A recent study in Chicago showed that nearly two-thirds of those on welfare rolls had less than a sixth grade education.

The indirect costs of adult illiteracy cannot even be calculated, for these costs involve physical and mental illness, urban blight, crime, delinquency, illegitimacy, etc. Illiteracy frequently is passed from generation to generation, along with poverty and futility. ## Guitar Makers Hear Music in Noisy Twang

$100 Million Business Forecast In Sales This Year

BY RUSSELL LANE

CHICAGO (AP) —The twang heard throughout the land comes from more than one million guitars sold in 1964 and at least as many earlier models still being picked at by Americans.

This is the report of the American Music Conference, which says that indications point to over $100 million in guitar sales this year. Sales in 1964 were $95 million, up 46 per cent.

"It's a swinging business," says C. W. Kramer, vice president of the Fred Gretsch Manufacturing Co., New York, which makes guitars and other instruments.

The popularity of the guitar was snuiped up by a Chicago area high school principal as he came out on the stage to award prizes for the best acts as a climax to a student talent revue.

Felt Undressed

"I feel undressed without a guitar in my hands," he said.

The judges were not confronted with choosing a singer over a dancer. It was a matter of who plunked the strings the best.

Teen-agers have substituted the guitar for the HULA HOOP. Amateur groaner groups who get themselves up Beatle-style abound. A long roster of well-known names has been identified with the guitar, from poet Carl Sandburg to Princess Grace of Monaco.

Chicago is a guitar production center.

Arnold M. Berlin, president of Chicago Musical Instrument Co., says, the volume of "our guitar operations was up 25 per cent last year. Our Kalamazoo, Mic, guitar factory has been working a six-day double shift week, and the plant force has increased from 300 in 1960 to about 800 this year."

Top Instruments

Top-line instruments sell in a price range from $100 to $800.

Sidney M. Katz, president of Kay Musical Instrument Co., says "We're in the leisure business, not the music business. Our main competition is the $100 shotgun, water skis and the money being spent on vacations."

Key's best seller is a flat-top model which retails for $49.50, although the company turns out instruments that sell for $400.

If there is a jarring note in the mounting number of import models, says Robert Englehardt, president of Vlado Guitar, Inc. He estimates that close to 300,000 guitars were shipped into the United States last year, most of them from Japan.

"There's plenty of market for American manufacturers now—we all have backlogs. But if quality of the foreign products improves, there could be problems," says Jay L. Kraus, head of Harmony Co.

Indians, Teens Dance for Rain

LOVINGTON, N.M. (AP) — Ancient Indian rituals and modern teen-age dances are being used to bring rain to the parched Lovington area in southeastern New Mexico.

The first Lovington rain festival opened over the weekend with teen-agers performing the watusi, swim, mashed potato and other modern dances at the Courthouse Square.

The Philip Whitecloud Indian Dance Troupe took over the next night with traditional Indian rain dances.

If the ceremonies fail, City Mgr. Wes Allen has a backstop business offer from a Denver rainmaking company which offered to try producing rain scientifically.

program and is prepared to work out compromises in his pending legislation to suit some of the wishes of the Democrats who control the state assembly.

4. He believes the declared attempt of conservative Republican lawmakers to trim his record high budget of expenditures will turn out to be "an exercise in futility." He said the only significant reductions can be made in education and welfare spending which represent the chief reasons for the swelling of the budget and that he is confident that the legislature in the end will enact biennial expenditures not appreciably different than those he has recommended.

"Minutemen" Soon

5. He will soon make public the names of the "Minutemen" who will compose a 100-man core of business experts charged with directing a nationwide program for Wisconsin economic expansion.

The governor indicated that he may compromise with the assembly Democrats in their insistence upon some increases in the strength of the state traffic patrol and for an engineering survey of hazardous locations on the Wisconsin highway system. But he said he will refuse to abandon his support of the implied consent legislation under which all vehicle drivers would be required to submit to intoxication tests when asked to do so, under a penalty of license revocation.

The Republican governor at first declined to comment about a question on Schumacher, a Democratic appointee to the conservation commission, but later returned to the subject and said the question came up at a conference with the officers of Menominee Enterprises, Inc. last week.

He said he had been told by the corporation officers of their opposition to the suggested sale of 200,000 acres of its commercial forest lands to the state but that "I am continuing to assess the matter."

Fla., an Army Reserve major general asked Lavelle, "What would you do to their ability to field and feed troops who would be expected to pour like ants all over Southeast Asia?"

Lavelle expressed the belief "we can take out their government, their command and control capability, which in Red China is pretty highly centralized."

Key Areas

Sikes reminded Lavelle that even though much of Red China's industry is scattered there are certain key areas. He said "they have a submarine building capacity, and they have a new nuclear building facility. There are some rather important industries that are localized. What could you do, and do you have plans to destroy that industry?"

"Yes sir," replied Lavelle, "we could and do have plans."

Further on in his testimony, Lavelle said that the Russians have "approximately the same capability for inflicting this same type of unacceptable damage on us."

Sikes raised the question, "If we are going to knock them out of the war, and they are going to knock us out of the war, where are we going to go from there?"

"That," said Lavelle, "is one of the major items we intend to spend considerable time on this year."

See Injunction in Rail Clerk Strike

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The management of Union Station Railway Terminal says it may seek an injunction against a strike by 700 members of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks if supervisory personnel cannot keep the mails from being delayed.

Terminal officials said supervisory personnel began handling the mail Sunday after mail and baggage handlers, gatemen, redcaps and other workers walked off their jobs.

Allen, 3, also was shot in the head but not seriously hurt. Two daughters, Kelly Ann, 8, and Susan, 8 months, escaped injury.

The gunfire exchange with officers began after the boy shot into the Reida car. Lucille Reida, 44, who suffered minor wounds from flying glass and metal, pushed her husband aside and drove the car out of range. She told officers later she had never driven before.

Truck Driver

An unidentified truck driver drove the Reida family eight miles north to a hospital in Santa Maria, 180 miles north of Los Angeles.

Then, more than 50 Santa Barbara County sheriff's deputies, Santa Maria policemen and California Highway Patrol officers converged on the scene, after halting traffic for several miles on either side of the battle area.

The youth by then had hit seven vehicles, including Reida's, a police car, two trucks and one of three ambulances that raced to the scene. Seven other persons were wounded by bullets, bullet fragments or flying glass, none seriously.

Officers fired from behind a barricade provided by truck driver Lloyd Ritchie, 41, of Van Nuys, who crouched low over his wheel and drove his oil-torrig directly into the youth's rifle range.

Sheriff's detective Mike Swan termed Ritchie "a wonderful citizen, one of the bravest men I've ever met."

The Indians charged that Pakistan had for the first time thrown tanks into the area and that three of them were destroyed.

Pakistan said the fighting resulted from an outbreak of firing by Indian troops.

"Pakistan had to take swift retaliatory action last night in the Chad Bet area of the Rann of Kutch following repeated firing on its positions by the Indian army," a government spokesman said. He said Indian guns were silenced, with heavy Indian casualties.

He told the country that recent evidence, from newly captured prisoners and documents, has increased the estimate of infiltrators since 1959 to a total of 39,000.

Reports so far confirm the infiltration of between 5,000 and 8,000 personnel in 1964 alone, McNamara said, "and in view of the normal time lag between actual infiltration and confirmation, it is probable that there were at least 10,000 infiltrators in that single year."

It appears that the vviet Cong hard core, or main force units, "now are being entirely re-equipped and retrained with the newest Chinese Communist family of weapons," McNamara said.

McNamara said the clandestine infiltration of personnel and materiel from North Viet Nam into South Viet Nam "continues to play a vital role in providing the Viet Cong with the leadership, technical competence, weapons, ammunitions required to carry on the insurgency against the government of Viet Nam," McNamara said.

In relating the tragedy, the woman said, waves started coming over the front of the boat, and she yelled a warning to Young who was operating the motor. When she yelled, he got up, and came forward. The boat continued to fill with water and the couple was dumped into the river.

Clinging to each other, they both went under the surface, she said. The woman said her foot became entangled in the anchor rope but she managed to free herself. When the couple came back to the surface they were a short distance apart.

Near Shore

Floating in the water, she yelled for help and also told Young to try to swim to the tree branches. He thrashed in the water, she said, but was unable to make any progress toward the tree before he went under, about 10 feet from the low-hanging branches.

The two men who rescued the woman were also in a small boat and had to tow her into shallows before they could get her into the boat. After they transferred her to another boat, they returned to search for Young.

Members of the Fremont, Weyauvega, and Clintonville fire departments assisted the Sheriff's Department in searching for the body. The search was directed by Undersheriff William Mork.

Rights Killing Trial Review Gets Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed today to review the dismissal by a federal judge of major charges in the killing of three civil rights workers in Philadelphia, Miss., U.S. Dist. Judge Harold Cox. In Jackson, Miss., dismissed a felony indictment against 17 defendants. He also dismissed three of four counts of a misdemeanor indictment against 14 of the 17 men.

The rights workers were Andrew Goodman and Michael Schwerner both white and from New York, and James Chaney, a Negro of Meridian, Miss. They were killed the night of June 21, 1964. Their bodies were found under an earthen dam near Philadelphia, Miss., Aug. 4, 1964. All had been shot.

In dismissing the felony indictment, Cox said it did not state an offense against the United States and his court therefore had no jurisdiction. The 17 had been accused under this indictment of conspiring to use violence to deny the rights of the three workers by killing them.

Stops Itch—Relieves Pain In Minutes

New York, N. Y. (Special): A world-famous institute has discovered a new substance which has the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids without surgery. The sufferer first notices almost unbelievable relief in minutes from itching, burning and pain. Then this substance speeds up healing of the injured tissues all while it quickly reduces painful swelling.

Tests conducted under a doctor's observations proved this so—even in cases of 10 to 20 years' standing. The secret is the new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — now offered in both ointment or suppository form called Preparation H®.

In addition to actually shrinking piles—Preparation H lubricates and makes bowel movements less painful. It helps to prevent infection (a principal cause of hemorrhoids).

Only Preparation H contains this magic new substance which quickly helps heal injured cells back to normal and stimulates regrowth of healthy tissue again. Just ask for Preparation H Ointment or Preparation H Suppositories (easier to use away from home). Available at all drug counters.

Lawrence Says
Another Look
At Viet Nam
War Needed

Directed Related
To Safety of People
Of United States

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
WASHINGTON — The United States is today engaged in a war in Viet Nam that is directly related to the safety of the American people. Up to now, the emphasis has been on the altruistic desire of America to help the nations in Southeast Asia to preserve their independence and to prevent a Communist takeover of the smaller countries. But generally overlooked is the grim fact that China has begun to develop as nuclear power and is apparently determined to frighten and terrorize neighboring countries. Some critics have naively pointed out that very few of the nations in Asia are supporting American policy today and that this is an added reason for the American withdrawal into isolationism. But the truth is that these same governments would hardly dare to come out openly in favor of American policy, lest they incur the hostility of the Red Chinese. The peoples of the smaller countries, however, would surely be disheartened if the United States withdrew groups with political influence. The President wisely decided to wait until there has been a clearer demonstration of American military power in Viet Nam, so that the Asian countries, instead of being dispirited and ready to countenance Red Chinese activities, would instead be encouraged to take a more determined stand against the spread of Communism. For in the world, and through their student organizations and other every one of the similar countergroups, have managed to stir up enough opposition to threaten the political tenure of many it is not considered discreet governments unless they adopt an openly to support American "neutralist" position.

It is really not surprising that the Asian countries do not openly endorse American policy. This is also evident in other areas. The Communists have infiltrated many of the capitals of the world, and through their student organizations and other every one of the similar countergroups, have managed to stir up enough opposition to threaten the political tenure of many it is not considered discreet governments unless they adopt an openly to support American "neutralist" position.

More at Stake
The United States has much more at stake than the protection of Southeast Asia. For if out and announcing their intention to send "volunteers" to nuclear weapons which can threaten not only other countries but even the United States and if America abandons Viet Nam, it will be too late for this country to win allies in Asia or making progress in Viet Nam. In the Middle East or even in the South Vietnamese government. For by that time the Red Chinese will have gained the upper hand.

The United States not only must win the Viet Nam war, but it must show the Red Chinese that it will not be intimidated and that, if necessary, bombing raids will be extended into every area in which the Red Chinese will have sent arms and ammunition and guerrilla fighters. For Rattlers OKEENE, Okla. (AP) — Hunters by the hundreds from 26 states and at least three foreign countries turned out Sunday to look for Oklahoma diamond-backs.

It was the time of the annual rattlesnake hunts at Okeene and Waynoka, in northwest Oklahoma.

The longest catch at Waynoka was a 6-foot, 2-inch snake brought in by Lloyd Bogden of Fort Smith, Ark.

The biggest at Okeene was turned in by Barney Barnett of Wichita Falls, Tex., who caught a snake measuring 5 feet, 10 1/2 inches.

Barnett also was inducted into the exclusive "Order of the White Fang," whose membership is limited to those bitten at the annual hunt. A rattler struck him last year.

their invasion of the mainland. If air raids are engaged in by the Red Chinese against any American troops or installations, the way will be open to bomb the nuclear facilities of the Red Chinese and destroy them once and for all.

Wrong Criticism

President Johnson has been wrongly criticized for having postponed the visits of the prime ministers of India and Pakistan. The truth is that the Communists are active in those two countries. The United States cannot be in a position at this time of backing down in the Viet Nam war, a policy which is smaller countries, however, would surely be disheartened if the United States withdrew groups with political influence. The President wisely decided to wait until there has been a clearer demonstration of American military power in Viet Nam, so that the Asian countries, instead of being dispirited and ready to countenance Red Chinese activities, would instead be encouraged to take a more determined stand against the spread of Communism. Certainly if the United States ever withdrew its forces from Viet Nam, all of Southeast Asia would fall apart, and the Communists would have an easy task in taking over. Red China's power would be immeasurably increased, and the danger of a nuclear war with the United States would be heightened. That's why the President and his advisers today are moving with deliberation and resolution to get a strong military position in Southeast Asia. For such an objective is directly tied in with the safety of the United States against political nuclear attack.
